May Sought Equal Terms For Illinois

Kentuckian Intervened For Munitions Many Times, Hardy Says

TESTIFIES BATAVIA MADE $959,855 OFFER

Asks For Inquiry After Learning Of Government "Overpayment"

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Roswell Hardy testified today that Chairman May (D-Ky) of the House Military committee exerted "influence" on behalf of an Illinois munitions combine but that the congressmen sought only an "equal opportunity" for it with other war contractors. Hardy, wartime chief of the ordnance department's ammunition division, told the Senate War Investigating Committee that May had intervened on several occasions on behalf of Batavia metal products company, a dominant concern in what Chairman Mead (D-NY) has termed a "sparkling paper empire."

In response to a question from Senator Ferguson (R-Mich), Hardy said he knew of no occasion when May had sought more than an "equal opportunity."

Under Ferguson's pressing examination, Hardy related that he became aware that "outside influence" was being exercised in behalf of Batavia in late 1944 or early 1945, and that it was "generally known" in the war department.

Earlier in the day, Undersecretary of War Kenneth C. Royall told the committee that May had called him into his private office last September and credited to him responsibility for instituting a War Department investigation of May's relations with Erie Basin metal products company, one of Batavia's affiliates.

"He said to me," Royall told the committee, "that 'you are having me investigated in this matter and I have information that you made a statement that I'm interested in Erie Basin Metal Products Company.'"

Royall added that he denied both institution of the investigation and the statement.

He said that he was back on capitol hill a few days later to testify before May's committee and once again May called him into his office.

This time, he quoted May as saying: "I was entirely wrong about what I said to you the other day. Just forget it."

The undersecretary also disclosed that the justice department has opened an inquiry to determine whether criminal proceedings against the promoters of the Illinois combine would be warranted.

Foods Are Selling Within Reason, Retail Grocers Say

CHICAGO, July 10. (AP)—The National Association of Retail Grocers said today it had taken a nationwide survey which shows retail grocers everywhere are "holding the line" on food prices in the absence of OPA controls.

"Only where removal of subsidies or increased suppliers' costs have made advances necessary have the retailers increased their prices," an association statement said, adding:

"In no instances have they increased their own profits and in many cases certain foods are selling at under ceiling prices while improved supplies of scarce commodities are already forcing prices down to normal levels."

Hillman Is Mourned By CIO Heads

Philip Murray May Be Temporary Successor As PAC Chairman

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP) — While mourning Sidney Hillman's death, CIO leaders pledged today that their Political Action committee will continue to play an active role in election campaigns.

They forecast that CIO President Philip Murray will make a quick decision in choosing Hillman's successor as CIO-PAC chairman, for the organization has taken sides in many congressional races still to be decided.

Murray himself may take over the CIO-PAC leadership temporarily. This would give him time to search for someone as permanent chairman with the ability Hillman had displayed for keeping all CIO elements working together toward the same political objectives.

PAC Will Continue

"One this is certain: CIO-PAC will go on," commented R. J. Thomas, vice president of the CIO Auto Workers and CIO-PAC secretary-treasurer. "If anything, we will increase our activities."

Hillman's sudden death leaves Thomas and Van A. Bittner, CIO-PAC vice chairman, as the organization's top men. However, it appeared doubtful that Murray will select either of them to take over the leadership.

Thomas's position in the CIO Auto Workers Union has been weakened somewhat since he was forced to surrender its presidency to Walter Reuther.

Bittner is directing CIO's membership drive in the south and has his hands full with that.

Most top CIO officials plan to attend Hillman's funeral. There, they undoubtedly will talk over pos-

Anti-Pollution In Other States Will Be Studied

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 10. (AP)—When the Maryland Committee on water pollution meets July 31, it will have the benefit of a resume of anti-pollution activities in 26 other states as a guide to recommending a free state program.

Paul W. McKee, executive secretary of the committee, said today his report, providing a comparative study of state laws along with Maryland's would be presented to the committee.

Recommendations for the committee will be given to the attorney general's office for embodiment in a suggested bill which would set fourth an anti-pollution program.

This legislative proposal would be submitted later to the legislative council for consideration.

In discussing the pollution situation generally in the state, McKee said it appeared that state agencies had fairly adequate autohrity under present laws, but were weak in co-ordination and lacked personnel and funds for equipment to execute a sound anti-pollution program.

He explained that the state has only one legal loophole for pollution —lack of power where municipalities permit fluids poisonous only to fish life to flow into streams.

The department of health has adequate authority to gather information and enforce the laws, he continued, but needs personnel and equipment to make pollution studies. It does, however, lack power to proceed against pollution injurious only to fish life.

On the other hand the Inland Fish and Game Commission and the Tidewater Fisheries Commission are empowered to prosecute polluters except municipalities, but they both lack trained personnel to detect polluting sources.

Molotov Wants Unified States In Germany Now

Opposes Transformation Of Reich Into Agricultural Nation

By JOSEPH DYNAN

PARIS, July 10. (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov flatly opposed tonight any plan for Germany's future which would dismember, federalize or reduce the Reich to the status of an agricultural state.

He called for the setting up at once of a central German administration "as a transitional step toward the establishment of a future German government" with which the allies could sign a peace treaty.

In a lengthy speech to the four-power foreign ministers council on Russia's views on the fundamental problems of German, Molotov demanded:

Establishment of a system of four-power interallied control over all German industries and over the key Ruhr plants in particular. The Ruhr now is administered exclusively by the British.

Drafting of a plan to assure German reparations deliveries to the allies as a means of furthering the "complete military and economic disarmament" of the Reich.

At Odds With Bidault

Molotov's statement on the need for German centralization placed him squarely at odds with Georges Bidault, French President and foreign minister. Bidault declared that France would discuss centralization of the Reich only after Germany's western boundaries have been fixed. The French have asked that the Ruhr, Rhineland and the Saar be separated from Germany.

Molotov declared it was "easy to understand that without the Ruhr Germany cannot exist as an independent and stable state."

He explained that naturally Russia would not object to federalization of Germany or the separation of former German states from the Reich if plebiscites revealed that such changes conformed to the expressed wishes of the Germans themselves.

Bidault also hailed as a bulwark to European security the American-proposed 25-year treaty to insure German disarmament which the Russian minister criticized sharply yesterday.

Molotov, in a three-hour debate within the four-power council on the German problem, opposed France's contention that the Ruhr, Rhineland and Saar be separated from Germany, unless such a separation was endorsed in a plebiscite of the German people.

Molotov said proposals for the dismemberment of Germany were based upon an idea of destruction of the German state which the Soviet Union could not accept.

He said the allies had no right to impose these ideas upon the German people.

Russ Opposes Revenge

He explained that the Soviet Union did not believe that revenge was a good guide to policies on Germany and that Russia did not favor its destruction as a state of making it only an agricultural country.

It would be just as unfair, Molotov argued, to identify the whole German people with Hitler as it was to say that the German people had no responsibility at all for Hitler. He, himself, Molotov said, was opposed to depriving Germany of such an important industrial center as the Ruhr.

Molotov said German industry had played an important part in world economy and the main task of the allies was to transform her into a Democratic, peace-loving state, deprived only of her war potential. He urged the ministers to raise the maximum for German steel production as set by the allies last month.

The Russian urged a four-power

Lustig Convicted Of Evading Taxes

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP)—Federal Judge Harold Kennedy today sentenced Henry Lustig, restauranteur convicted of evading payment of $2,872,766 in federal income taxes, to serve a four-year prison term and also fined him $115,000.

Lustig is president of the Longchamps Restaurant chain. His nephew, E. Allen Lustig, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment, and Joseph Sobel, the chain's chief accountant, drew two years' imprisonment. They were charged with having assisted Lustig in the alleged evasion.

A five-year prison sentence and a $230,000 fine for Henry Lustig had been recommended by the government prosecutor. Lustig was found guilty on all counts of a 23-count indictment, making him technically liable for a 112-year sentence and $230,000 fine.

Judge Kennedy, noting that the jury had recommended clemency, said: "Whatever prompted it, I'm bound to consider it." He said he had been assured by the defendants' counsel, Lloyd Paul Stryker, that taxes still outstanding against Lustig would be paid.

Boris Kostlanetz, special assistant attorney general and prosecutor in the case, estimated upward of $5,000,000 in taxes and $3,000,000 in penalties still were owed.

Sweep For 10 Incumbents In Washington And Utah Indicated

[By The Associated Press]

A clean sweep for all 10 congressmen from Washington state and Utah seeking renomination was indicated last night (Wednesday) on the basis of unofficial returns from Tuesday's primary election.

In the spotlight race of the two states' otherwise unexciting campaigns, Rep. Hugh DeLacey maintained a sizeable lead over Radio Announcer Howard Costigan whom he also defeated two years ago for the first district Democratic nomination.

This contest divided the Roosevelt family. DeLacy, running with the support of James Roosevelt, received 18,662 votes in 555 of the 771 precincts, compared with 15,810 for Costigan who was backed by Anna Roosevelt Boettiger. Two other candidates trailed.

Senator Hugh B. Mitchell (D-Wash) was renominated, holding a lead of 42,363 to 8,432 over his nearest opponent, State Treasurer Russell H. Fluent, in 1,163 of 3,376 precincts.

Three other congressmen apparently had won their contests by wide margins — Rep Walt Horan (R) Fifth district, Washington; Rep. John M. Coffee (D) Sixth district, Washington, and Rep. Walter Granger (D) First District, Utah.

Others renominated, all unopposed, were Sen. Abe Murdock (D-Utah), Rep. J. Will Robinson (D) Second district, Utah; Rep. Henry M. Jackson (D) Second district, Washington, Rep. Charles R. Savage (D) Third district, Washington, and Rep. Hal Holmes (R) Fourth district, Washington.

The fat returns in the DeLacy-Costigan contest showed many Republicans switched over to get into the squabble between the daughter and eldest son of the late president.

Senator Mitchell, who has figured prominently in conducting the current Mead Committee War Profits investigation, will go into the November election against Harry P. Cain, former Tacoma mayor who won the GOP nomination handily.

UAW Fights Speedup

DETROIT, July 10 (AP) — The Chrysler conference of the United Auto Workers today protested reported "speedups" in Chrysler plants and empowered locals to take strike action if necessary to support the protests.

UAW spokesmen said there were no indications of any immediate strike action against Chrysler plants, which employ an estimated 60,000 UAW members.

HERE IS WHAT THE SENATE HAS CUT FROM OPA

WASHINGTON, July 10. (AP)—Here is the box score on senate amendments to exempt specific items from price ceilings under any revival of OPA:

Exemption for meat and poultry, by Senator Wherry (R-Neb)—adopted 49 to 26.

Exemption for milk and dairy products, by Wherry — adopted 51 to 27.

Exemption for cottonseed, soy beans and their products, by Senator Eastland (D-Miss)—adopted 42 to 34.

Exemption for grains and their byproducts, by Senator Reed (R-Kans) — defeated 32 to 40.

Exemption for petroleum and its products so long as supply exceeds domestic demand, by Senator Moore (R-Okla) — adopted 40 to 30.

The meat and poultry amendment was acted on yesterday, the others today and tonight. More such amendments are to come up tomorrow.

B And O Expects Material Increase In Car Loadings

President Says Company Will Have Million Dollar Deficit For June

BALTIMORE, July 10 (AP)—President Roy B. White of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad said today he expected a material increase in car loadings during the remainder of the year and that the company will operate "slightly in the black" during the latter half of 1946.

White estimated the B. and O. would have a deficit of about a million dollars for June, as compared with a net income of $2,076,186 for June of 1945. He said the line would show a deficit of about seventeen million for the first half of 1946, as compared with a net income of $11,733,969 for the like period of last year.

Regarding increased traffic, White's statement said:

"Recently the B. and O. has not had sufficient cars available to supply mines with all the equipment needed for coal loading, this situation having been aggravated by slow returns of equipment to its lines.

"Although the adoption of the five-day week has resulted in delay in releasing freight carrying equipment of all kinds, the improvement of labor conditions, on the lakes and in industry should cause traffic to begin moving soon in more normal channels.

"It is believed the movement of coal will gradually become more normal and thus will improve the car situation."

White predicted the emergency freight rate increases authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission will increase B. and O. operating revenues about $1,500,000 a month.

U. S. Offers To Renounce Vienna Claims

Gen. Clark Says Russian Seizure Of Property Won't Be Recognized

By LYNN HEINZERLING

VIENNA, July 10 (AP)—The United States offered today to renounce all claims to German assets in Austria, and declared it would not recognize Russian seizure of German properties in that country classified by the allies as "forced transfers" to the Germans.

The United States stepped into the Austrian-Russian controversy over reparations even as Chancellor Leopold Figl protested the Soviet plan to seize a large share of Austrian industry in the Soviet zone as "German" reparations.

Won't Recognize Transfer

Gen. Mark W. Clark in a note to Figl declared the United States would not recognize the transfer to Russia of properties falling into the category of forced transfers, as enunciated at the London conference in January, 1943. At that conference the allies, including Russia, reserved the right to declare invalid any property transfers in German-occupied areas, even though they were purportedly legal.

Clark's letter to Figl relayed a message from President Truman saying the United States "now agrees to turn over to the Austrian government as trustee all German assets now physically located in the United States zone" pending negotiations with other Allied powers on the proposal to renounce the American share in those assets.

The letter from Clark, American commander in Austria, was certain to have a deep political effect in Austria. It was disclosed three hours after Figl made an impassioned address to the Austrian parliament, declaring that removal of property as announced by the Russians would eliminate Austria's chances for economic recovery.

British Support U. S.

(In London, the British foreign officers said Britain was supporting the United States stand against the Russian seizure. A spokesman said Britain feared that Austria's economy and even the fulfillment of the promise that Austria would become an independent nation again were threatened by the Soviet action.)

"I take pleasure in informing you," Clark's letter to Figl said, "that the

Outsiders Blamed For Club Holdup

BALTIMORE, July 10. (AP)—Asserting "there are no organized gangs in Baltimore," Police Commissioner Hamilton R. Atkinson said today available evidence indicated that "out-of-town men" perpetrated the armed robbery of the Century Athletic Club July 4.

Atkinson said his investigators not only thought the four gunmen who held up members of the club were from out of town but also believed they were the same gang who pulled an armed robbery at the Independent Democratic Club last January.

He disclosed that several victims of the January hold-up were taken to Trenton, N. J., to view four men held in connection with a series of robberies there.

Atkinson said that he had acquainted Fred Hallford, agent in charge of the FBI officer here, with all developments in the athletic club hold-up.

Halford said, however, that his office could not enter the investigation unless it was established that $5,000 or more in stolen money had been taken out of the state.

Police officials have estimated that not more than $3,000 was taken, but unofficial estimates placed the loot at more than $35,000.

Standing Army Of 800,000 Necessary, Eisenhower Says

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower believes the United States must maintain an army of approximately 800,000 men for the next 15 to 20 years, compared with 188,000 in 1939.

He expressed that belief today to the House Military Committee as he pleaded for prompt approval of legislation permitting a doubling of the officer personnel of the regular army — from 25,000 to 50,000.

The committee approved the bill, already passed by the senate.

"I can see no possibility in the next 15 to 20 years" of the army's going below 800,000 men, the chief of staff told the committee.

That figure, he explained, would result from a gradual tapering off from the 1,070,000 officers and men expected to be in uniform on July 1, 1947.

Half of the 800,000, he estimated, would be in the air forces.

To direct such an army, Eisenhower estimated, will require 80,000 officers, of whom 50,000 would be regular officers and the others temporary officers on active duty. Of the 50,000 regulars, 27,500 would be assigned to the air forces, 11,000 to ground forces and 11,500 to the service forces.

China Faces New Crisis On Relief

UNRRA Suspends All Relief Shipments Except Emergency Food

NANKING, July 10 (AP)—China faced a new crisis today, that of suspension of all relief shipments save emergency foods.

Announcement in Washington of the UNRRA action, coupled with criticism of Generalissimo Chiang's government, drew a charge of "unfair" from a government relief spokesman and an assessment of relief conditions by Chinese Communist spokesmen in support of the criticism.

In Washington, UNRRA's director general, Fiorello H. LaGuardia, said suspension of the shipments was decided upon after more than half of UNRRA's 400 staff members in China accused Chiang's government of failing to get materials to millions in the interior and of using relief goods for political ends.

In Shanghai, T. F. Tsiang, director general of the Chinese National Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, which takes over all goods from UNRRA, declined comment but his deputy in Nanking, Dr. Dison Hsueh Feng-Po, said:

"It is unfair to stress that only two per cent of UNRRA deliveries to China are going to Communist areas because the great bulk of imports are communications equipment including railway, locomotives, cars and so forth turned over directly to the National government for the rehabilitation of rail lines and highways."

A Chinese Communist spokesman in Nanking said one-third of China's population lives in Communist-controlled areas, but only one half of one percent of UNRRA imports to China have penetrated those sectors. He said military and political reasons were behind the blockade.

Bummy Davis' Widow Saves Slayers' Lives

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP) — A widow's mercy today saved three convicted murders from the electric chair.

Preparing to sentence three gunmen for killing Al (Bummy) Davis, famous Brooklyn boxer, Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz looked toward the fighter's widow.

"Mrs. Davis, I have the power to send these men to the chair," the judge said quietly. "What are your wishes?"

The widow, blonde and pretty in a neat yellow frock, bowed her head for a moment. The quality of mercy gleamed in the dusty Brooklyn court when her answer came:

"I don't believe in capital punishment. Whatever you decide to do will be all right with me."

She turned away from the three thugs who had murdered the father of her three-year-old child. The judge gave each of them a sentence of life imprisonment.

"The sentence means that each of you will die in prison unless some chicken-hearted governor lets you out," he informed the killers—John Romano, 23, Vincent Giarraffa, 23, and Russell Ronohoe, 24, all of Brooklyn.

Davis was killed last November when he attempted to block a hold-up at a Brooklyn tavern. The gunmen were found guilty by a jury May 28.

Airline Restrainer Asked

BALTIMORE, July 10. (AP)—The Public Service Commission was asked today to restrain Columbia Airlines, Inc., from operating a combination plane-limousine service between Baltimore and Ocean City.

The complainants were Chesapeake Airways, Inc., and Red Star Motor Coaches, Inc., which operate a plane-bus service between the same points.

Grain Prices Will Continue Under Ceiling

Oil Amendment Is Adopted By Senate On Roll-call Of 40 To 30

MILK, DAIRY PRODUCTS FREED BY 51-27 VOTE

Majority Leader Barkley Leads Successful Fight For Grain Control

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP) — Risking another presidential veto, the senate tonight piled more items into a class which the OPA, if revived, may not touch—milk and dairy products, petroleum, cottonseed, soy beans and anything made from them.

Of four additional test votes to exempt specific commodities from revived price ceilings, following the exemption of meat and poultry yesterday, only one went the way the administration wanted. That was a proposal to remove grains from the control list, beaten 32 to 40.

"There has been so much back-scratching it has resulted in a soreness that would exhaust all the liniment in Washington," remarked Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky), noting the support which senators interested in one particular item gave to those seeking exemption for other items.

More amendments are on tap for tomorrow. Nevertheless Barkley saw a "good chance" of passing by tomorrow night whatever legislation the Senate is willing to approve, but he sighed that "every new sunrise brings forth a new crop of speeches and amendments."

May Have Less Power

On the house side, Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) of the Banking Committee expressed the opinion that, the way the senate is going, its bill in the end may provide for less price control than the measure President Truman vetoed. He told reporters an effort may be made to substitute that bill when the senate's legislation reached the house, and send it back to Mr. Truman.

Additional decontrol amendments are expected covering tobacco and wood pulp. Barkley told newsmen, however, that a scrap over tobacco controls may be avoided because "we are trying to get the Agriculture Department to announce there will be no ceilings" on tobacco products in any event. The Secretary of Agriculture, instead of the OPA, would have the final say on agricultural price ceilings, as the bill stands now.

Several other amendments are pending in addition to the specific decontrol provisions. They include the controversial proposal by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) to give manufacturers and processors prices

Shoppers Find Ready Supply Of Beef Now; But Prices Are Up

BALTIMORE, July 10. (AP)—Housewives here found a ready supply of beef in markets today, at prices averaging about nine cents a pound more than former OPA ceilings but much less than those asked last week right after ceilings were eliminated.

Pork continued in short supply and there was not much lamb.

For the first time in many weeks there were no lines of waiting customers at meat counters and butchers were beginning to pile up a backlog in their refrigerators.

Prices on choice beef cuts stayed up, half again the former OPA ceilings, or around 25 cents a pound higher. But on more common cuts some butchers were asking less than the OPA limit.

Record Corn Crop And Big Grain Harvests Are Expected This Year

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—A record corn crop and near-record crops of wheat, oats, potatoes and rice were indicated by a government report today which said this year's farm production outlook has seldom been suspassed.

The condition of all crops on July 1 was the best in seven years except for 1942. The combined acreage of all crops has been exceeded since 1932 only in the past three years. Further, the indicated yields per acre of most crops are above average.

Perhaps the brightest part of the report was the forecast for grain, for supplies have been reduced to dangerously low levels by exports to hungry areas and by heavy feeding to livestock.

The department said the production of feed grains may be the largest on record. Should final production turn out as now indicated, production of livestock could be maintained near last year's levels through 1947.

The corn crop was forecast at 3,341,646,000 bushels, compared with in 1944. Last year's crop was 3,018,410,000 and production for the ten year (1935-44) average was 2,608,499,000.

The wheat crop was indicated at 1,090,092,000 bushel compared with 1,033,000,000 forecast in mid-June, a record of 1,123,143,000 produced last year, and a ten-year average of 843,692,000. Despite the bumper crop, wheat will be insufficient to meet both unrestricted domestic demands and foreign commitments for the year ahead.

The winter wheat crop was put at 857,163,000 compared with 823,177,000 last year and a ten-year average of 618,019,000. Durham wheat was forecast at 26,089,000 bushels compared with 35,020,000 last year and a ten-year average of 31,900,000. Production of other spring wheat was indicated at 206,840,000 bushels compared with 264,946,000 last year and a ten-year average of 193,774,000.

The outlook for other crops included:

Rye production may be the smallest since the drought of the 30's, the previous record of 3,228,000,000

Gromyko Unsuccessful In Attempt To Bar Canada From Atom Meeting

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, July 10. (AP)—Soviet Russia sought unsuccessfully by invoking the veto today to bar Canada from taking part in atomic-energy discussions in the United Nations security council. Australia simultaneously demanded that the whole veto question be aired at the coming general assembly meeting in September.

Over the objections of Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko, the security council invited Canada to the council table today at a session billed to consider rules adopted by the atomic energy commission. Canada is one of the nations which helped build the atomic bomb.

Letter Is Released

Gromyko told the council he reserved his right to bring up the question later. However, Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australia, in a brief, heated conversation with Gromyko after the council session said the question applied only to today's meeting; that Canada would have to be invited each time the council met to sit at the table if the council held that Canada's interests were involved.

Gromyko insisted after talking with Evatt that "the question is still open."

The United Nations secretariat released a letter from Evatt to the secretary-general requesting that the veto question be placed on the agenda of the general assembly meeting in September. Developments in the council, in which Russia has invoked the veto five times and sought to do so today, foreshadow an extended debate.

Gromyko did not choose to carry his stand on the veto to the showdown stage at this meeting.

McNaughton Sits With Council

General A. G. L. McNaughton, Canada's representative on the Atomic Energy Commission, sat with the council delegates during part of the heated discussion over whether he should have that right. Canada and the 11 nations on the security council make up the Atomic Energy Commission.

When the council met Dr. Herbert

TESTIFIES BATAVIA MADE $959,855 OFFER

Asks For Inquiry After Learning Of Government "Overpayment"

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Roswell Hardy testified today that Chairman May (D-Ky) of the House Military committee exerted "influence" on behalf of an Illinois munitions combine but that the congressmen sought only an "equal opportunity" for it with other war contractors. Hardy, wartime chief of the ordnance department's ammunition division, told the Senate War Investigating Committee that May had intervened on several occasions on behalf of Batavia metal products company, a dominant concern in what Chairman Mead (D-NY) has termed a "sparkling paper empire."

In response to a question from Senator Ferguson (R-Mich), Hardy said he knew of no occasion when May had sought more than an "equal opportunity."

Under Ferguson's pressing examination, Hardy related that he became aware that "outside influence" was being exercised in behalf of Batavia in late 1944 or early 1945, and that it was "generally known" in the war department.

Earlier in the day, Undersecretary of War Kenneth C. Royall told the committee that May had called him into his private office last September and credited to him responsibility for instituting a War Department investigation of May's relations with Erie Basin metal products company, one of Batavia's affiliates.

"He said to me," Royall told the committee, "that 'you are having me investigated in this matter and I have information that you made a statement that I'm interested in Erie Basin Metal Products Company."

Royall added that he denied both institution of the investigation and the statement.

He said that he was back on capitol hill a few days later to testify before May's committee and once again May called him into his office.

This time, he quoted May as saying: "I was entirely wrong about what I said to you the other day. Just forget it."

The undersecretary also disclosed that the justice department has opened an inquiry to determine whether criminal proceedings against the promoters of the Illinois combine would be warranted.

Foods Are Selling Within Reason, Retail Grocers Say

CHICAGO, July 10. (AP)—The National Association of Retail Grocers said today it had taken a nationwide survey which shows retail grocers everywhere are "holding the line" on food prices in the absence of OPA controls.

"Only where removal of subsidies or increased suppliers' costs have made advances necessary have the retailers increased their prices," an association statement said, adding:

"In no instances have they increased their own profits and in many cases certain foods are selling at under ceiling prices while improved supplies of scarce commodities are already forcing prices down to normal levels."

Philip Murray May Be Temporary Successor As PAC Chairman

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP) — While mourning Sidney Hillman's death, CIO leaders pledged today that their Political Action committee will continue to play an active role in election campaigns.

They forecast that CIO President Philip Murray will make a quick decision in choosing Hillman's successor as CIO-PAC chairman, for the organization has taken sides in many congressional races still to be decided.

Murray himself may take over the CIO-PAC leadership temporarily. This would give him time to search for someone as permanent chairman with the ability Hillman had displayed for keeping all CIO elements working together toward the same political objectives.

PAC Will Continue

"One this is certain: CIO-PAC will go on," commented R. J. Thomas, vice president of the CIO Auto Workers and CIO-PAC secretary-treasurer. "If anything, we will increase our activities."

Hillman's sudden death leaves Thomas and Van A. Bittner, CIO-PAC vice chairman, as the organization's top men. However, it appeared doubtful that Murray will select either of them to take over the leadership.

Thomas's position in the CIO Auto Workers Union has been weakened somewhat since he was forced to surrender its presidency to Walter Reuther.

Bittner is directing CIO's membership drive in the south and has his hands full with that.

Most top CIO officials plan to attend Hillman's funeral. There, they undoubtedly will talk over pos-

Anti-Pollution In Other States Will Be Studied

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 10. (AP)—When the Maryland Committee on water pollution meets July 31, it will have the benefit of a resume of anti-pollution activities in 26 other states as a guide to recommending a free state program.

Paul W. McKee, executive secretary of the committee, said today his report, providing a comparative study of state laws along with Maryland's would be presented to the committee.

Recommendations for the committee will be given to the attorney general's office for embodiment in a suggested bill which would set fourth an anti-pollution program.

This legislative proposal would be submitted later to the legislative council for consideration.

In discussing the pollution situation generally in the state, McKee said it appeared that state agencies had fairly adequate autohrity under present laws, but were weak in co-ordination and lacked personnel and funds for equipment to execute a sound anti-pollution program.

He explained that the state has only one legal loophole for pollution—lack of power where municipalities permit fluids poisonous only to fish life to flow into streams.

The department of health has adequate authority to gather information and enforce the laws, he continued, but needs personnel and equipment to make pollution studies. It does, however, lack power to proceed against pollution injurious only to fish life.

On the other hand the Inland Fish and Game Commission and the Tidewater Fisheries Commission are empowered to prosecute polluters except municipalities, but they both lack trained personnel to detect polluting sources.

Molotov Wants Unified States In Germany Now

Opposes Transformation Of Reich Into Agricultural Nation

By JOSEPH DYNAN

PARIS, July 10. (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov flatly opposed tonight any plan for Germany's future which would dismember, federalize or reduce the Reich to the status of an agricultural state.

He called for the setting up at once of a central German administration "as a transitional step toward the establishment of a future German government" with which the allies could sign a peace treaty.

In a lengthy speech to the four-power foreign ministers council on Russia's views on the fundamental problems of German, Molotov demanded:

Establishment of a system of four-power interallied control over all German industries and over the key Ruhr plants in particular. The Ruhr now is administered exclusively by the British.

Drafting of a plan to assure German reparations deliveries to the allies as a means of furthering the "complete military and economic disarmament" of the Reich.

At Odds With Bidault

Molotov's statement on the need for German centralization placed him squarely at odds with Georges Bidault, French President and foreign minister. Bidault declared that France would discuss centralization of the Reich only after Germany's western boundaries have been fixed. The French have asked that the Ruhr, Rhineland and the Saar be separated from Germany.

Molotov declared it was "easy to understand that without the Ruhr Germany cannot exist as an independent and stable state."

He explained that naturally Russia would not object to federalization of Germany or the separation of former German states from the Reich if plebiscites revealed that such changes conformed to the expressed wishes of the Germans themselves.

Bidault also hailed as a bulwark to European security the American-proposed 25-year treaty to insure German disarmament which the Russian minister criticized sharply yesterday.

Molotov, in a three-hour debate within the four-power council on the German problem, opposed France's contention that the Ruhr, Rhineland and Saar be separated from Germany, unless such a separation was endorsed in a plebiscite of the German people.

Molotov said proposals for the dismemberment of Germany were based upon an idea of destruction of the German state which the Soviet Union could not accept.

He said the allies had no right to impose these ideas upon the German people.

Russ Opposes Revenge

He explained that the Soviet Union did not believe that revenge was a good guide to policies on Germany and that Russia did not favor its destruction as a state of making it only an agricultural country.

It would be just as unfair, Molotov argued, to identify the whole German people with Hitler as it was to say that the German people had no responsibility at all for Hitler. He, himself, Molotov said, was opposed to depriving Germany of such an important industrial center as the Ruhr.

Molotov said German industry had played an important part in world economy and the main task of the allies was to transform her into a Democratic, peace-loving state, deprived only of her war potential. He urged the ministers to raise the maximum for German steel production as set by the allies last month.

The Russian urged a four-power

Lustig Convicted Of Evading Taxes

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP)—Federal Judge Harold Kennedy today sentenced Henry Lustig, restauranteur convicted of evading payment of $2,872,766 in federal income taxes, to serve a four-year prison term and also fined him $115,000.

Lustig is president of the Longchamps Restaurant chain. His nephew, E. Allen Lustig, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment, and Joseph Sobel, the chain's chief accountant, drew two years' imprisonment. They were charged with having assisted Lustig in the alleged evasion.

A five-year prison sentence and a $230,000 fine for Henry Lustig had been recommended by the government prosecutor. Lustig was found guilty on all counts of a 23-count indictment, making him technically liable for a 112-year sentence and $230,000 fine.

Judge Kennedy, noting that the jury had recommended clemency, said: "Whatever prompted it, I'm bound to consider it." He said he had been assured by the defendants' counsel, Lloyd Paul Stryker, that taxes still outstanding against Lustig would be paid.

Boris Kostlanetz, special assistant attorney general and prosecutor in the case, estimated upward of $5,000,000 in taxes and $3,000,000 in penalties still were owed.

Sweep For 10 Incumbents In Washington And Utah Indicated

[By The Associated Press]

A clean sweep for all 10 congressmen from Washington state and Utah seeking renomination was indicated last night (Wednesday) on the basis of unofficial returns from Tuesday's primary election.

In the spotlight race of the two states' otherwise unexciting campaigns, Rep. Hugh DeLacey maintained a sizeable lead over Radio Announcer Howard Costigan whom he also defeated two years ago for the first district Democratic nomination.

This contest divided the Roosevelt family. DeLacy, running with the support of James Roosevelt, received 18,662 votes in 555 of the 771 precincts, compared with 15,810 for Costigan who was backed by Anna Roosevelt Boettiger. Two other candidates trailed.

Senator Hugh B. Mitchell (D-Wash) was renominated, holding a lead of 42,363 to 8,432 over his nearest opponent, State Treasurer Russell H. Fluent, in 1,163 of 3,376 precincts.

Three other congressmen apparently had won their contests by wide margins — Rep Walt Horan (R) Fifth district, Washington; Rep. John M. Coffee (D) Sixth district, Washington, and Rep. Walter Granger (D) First District, Utah.

Others renominated, all unopposed, were Sen. Abe Murdock (D-Utah), Rep. J. Will Robinson (D) Second district, Utah; Rep. Henry M. Jackson (D) Second district, Washington, Rep. Charles R. Savage (D) Third district, Washington, and Rep. Hal Holmes (R) Fourth district, Washington.

The fat returns in the DeLacy-Costigan contest showed many Republicans switched over to get into the squabble between the daughter and eldest son of the late president.

Senator Mitchell, who has figured prominently in conducting the current Mead Committee War Profits investigation, will go into the November election against Harry P. Cain, former Tacoma mayor who won the GOP nomination handily.

UAW Fights Speedup

DETROIT, July 10 (AP) — The Chrysler conference of the United Auto Workers today protested reported "speedups" in Chrysler plants and empowered locals to take strike action if necessary to support the protests.

UAW spokesmen said there were no indications of any immediate strike action against Chrysler plants, which employ an estimated 60,000 UAW members.

BALTIMORE, July 10 (AP)—The last of 38,000 enemy soldiers held at prisoner-of-war camps in Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania have been moved to embarkation ports for repatriation, Second Army Headquarters announced here today.

HERE IS WHAT THE SENATE HAS CUT FROM OPA

WASHINGTON, July 10. (AP)—Here is the box score on senate amendments to exempt specific items from price ceilings under any revival of OPA:

Exemption for meat and poultry, by Senator Wherry (R-Neb)—adopted 49 to 26.

Exemption for milk and dairy products, by Wherry — adopted 51 to 27.

Exemption for cottonseed, soy beans and their products, by Senator Eastland (D-Miss)—adopted 42 to 34.

Exemption for grains and their byproducts, by Senator Reed (R-Kans) — defeated 32 to 40.

Exemption for petroleum and its products so long as supply exceeds domestic demand, by Senator Moore (R-Okla) — adopted 40 to 30.

The meat and poultry amendment was acted on yesterday, the others today and tonight. More such amendments are to come up tomorrow.

B And O Expects Material Increase In Car Loadings

President Says Company Will Have Million Dollar Deficit For June

BALTIMORE, July 10 (AP)—President Roy B. White of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad said today he expected a material increase in car loadings during the remainder of the year and that the company will operate "slightly in the black" during the latter half of 1946.

White estimated the B. and O. would have a deficit of about a million dollars for June, as compared with a net income of $2,076,186 for June of 1945. He said the line would show a deficit of about seventeen million for the first half of 1946, as compared with a net income of $11,733,969 for the like period of last year.

Regarding increased traffic, White's statement said:

"Recently the B. and O. has not had sufficient cars available to supply mines with all the equipment needed for coal loading, this situation having been aggravated by slow returns of equipment to its lines.

"Although the adoption of the five-day week has resulted in delay in releasing freight carrying equipment of all kinds, the improvement of labor conditions, on the lakes and in industry should cause traffic to begin moving soon in more normal channels.

"It is believed the movement of coal will gradually become more normal and thus will improve the car situation."

White predicted the emergency freight rate increases authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission will increase B. and O. operating revenues about $1,500,000 a month.

Standing Army Of 800,000 Necessary, Eisenhower Says

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower believes the United States must maintain an army of approximately 800,000 men for the next 15 to 20 years, compared with 188,000 in 1939.

He expressed that belief today to the House Military Committee as he pleaded for prompt approval of legislation permitting a doubling of the officer personnel of the regular army — from 25,000 to 50,000.

The committee approved the bill, already passed by the senate.

"I can see no possibility in the next 15 to 20 years" of the army's going below 800,000 men, the chief of staff told the committee.

That figure, he explained, would result from a gradual tapering off from the 1,070,000 officers and men expected to be in uniform on July 1, 1947.

Half of the 800,000, he estimated, would be in the air forces.

To direct such an army, Eisenhower estimated, will require 80,000 officers, of whom 50,000 would be regular officers and the others temporary officers on active duty. Of the 50,000 regulars, 27,500 would be assigned to the air forces, 11,000 to ground forces and 11,500 to the service forces.

U. S. Offers To Renounce Vienna Claims

Gen. Clark Says Russian Seizure Of Property Won't Be Recognized

By LYNN HEINZERLING

VIENNA, July 10 (AP)—The United States offered today to renounce all claims to German assets in Austria, and declared it would not recognize Russian seizure of German properties in that country classified by the allies as "forced transfers" to the Germans.

The United States stepped into the Austrian-Russian controversy over reparations even as Chancellor Leopold Figl protested the Soviet plan to seize a large share of Austrian industry in the Soviet zone as "German" reparations.

Won't Recognize Transfer

Gen. Mark W. Clark in a note to Figl declared the United States would not recognize the transfer to Russia of properties falling into the category of forced transfers, as enunciated at the London conference in January, 1943. At that conference the allies, including Russia, reserved the right to declare invalid any property transfers in German-occupied areas, even though they were purportedly legal.

Clark's letter to Figl relayed a message from President Truman saying the United States "now agrees to turn over to the Austrian government as trustee all German assets now physically located in the United States zone" pending negotiations with other Allied powers on the proposal to renounce the American share in those assets.

The letter from Clark, American commander in Austria, was certain to have a deep political effect in Austria. It was disclosed three hours after Figl made an impassioned address to the Austrian parliament, declaring that removal of property as announced by the Russians would eliminate Austria's chances for economic recovery.

British Support U. S.

(In London, the British foreign officers said Britain was supporting the United States stand against the Russian seizure. A spokesman said Britain feared that Austria's economy and even the fulfillment of the promise that Austria would become an independent nation again were threatened by the Soviet action.)

"I take pleasure in informing you," Clark's letter to Figl said, "that the

Outsiders Blamed For Club Holdup

BALTIMORE, July 10. (AP)—Asserting "there are no organized gangs in Baltimore," Police Commissioner Hamilton R. Atkinson said today available evidence indicated that "out-of-town men" perpetrated the armed robbery of the Century Athletic Club July 4.

Atkinson said his investigators not only thought the four gunmen who held up members of the club were from out of town but also believed they were the same gang who pulled an armed robbery at the Independent Democratic Club last January.

He disclosed that several victims of the January hold-up were taken to Trenton, N. J., to view four men held in connection with a series of robberies there.

Atkinson said that he had acquainted Fred Hallford, agent in charge of the FBI officer here, with all developments in the athletic club hold-up.

Hallford said, however, that his office could not enter the investigation unless it was established that $5,000 or more in stolen money had been taken out of the state.

Police officials have estimated that not more than $3,000 was taken, but unofficial estimates placed the loot at more than $35,000.

China Faces New Crisis On Relief

UNRRA Suspends All Relief Shipments Except Emergency Food

NANKING, July 10 (AP)—China faced a new crisis today, that of suspension of all relief shipments save emergency foods.

Announcement in Washington of the UNRRA action, coupled with criticism of Generalissimo Chiang's government, drew a charge of "unfair" from a government relief spokesman and an assessment of relief conditions by Chinese Communist spokesmen in support of the criticism.

In Washington, UNRRA's director general, Fiorello H. LaGuardia, said suspension of the shipments was decided upon after more than half of UNRRA's 400 staff members in China accused Chiang's government of failing to get materials to millions in the interior and of using relief goods for political ends.

In Shanghai, T. F. Tsiang, director general of the Chinese National Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, which takes over all goods from UNRRA, declined comment but his deputy in Nanking, Dr. Dison Hsueh Feng-Po, said:

"It is unfair to stress that only two per cent of UNRRA deliveries to China are going to Communist areas because the great bulk of imports are communications equipment including railway locomotives, cars and so forth turned over directly to the National government for the rehabilitation of rail lines and highways."

A Chinese Communist spokesman in Nanking said one-third of China's population lives in Communist-controlled areas, but only one half of one percent of UNRRA imports to China have penetrated those sectors. He said military and political reasons were behind the blockade.

Bummy Davis' Widow Saves Slayers' Lives

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP) — A widow's mercy today saved three convicted murders from the electric chair.

Preparing to sentence three gunmen for killing Al (Bummy) Davis, famous Brooklyn boxer, Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz looked toward the fighter's widow.

"Mrs. Davis, I have the power to send these men to the chair," the judge said quietly. "What are your wishes?"

The widow, blonde and pretty in a neat yellow frock, bowed her head for a moment. The quality of mercy gleamed in the dusty Brooklyn court when her answer came:

"I don't believe in capital punishment. Whatever you decide to do will be all right with me."

She turned away from the three thugs who had murdered the father of her three-year-old child. The judge gave each of them a sentence of life imprisonment.

"The sentence means that each of you will die in prison unless some chicken-hearted governor lets you out," he informed the killers—John Romano, 23, Vincent Giarraffa, 23, and Russell Ronohoe, 24, all of Brooklyn.

Davis was killed last November when he attempted to block a hold-up at a Brooklyn tavern. The gunmen were found guilty by a jury May 28.

Airline Restrainer Asked

BALTIMORE, July 10. (AP)—The Public Service Commission was asked today to restrain Columbia Airlines, Inc., from operating a combination plane-limousine service between Baltimore and Ocean City.

The complainants were Chesapeake Airways, Inc., and Red Star Motor Coaches, Inc., which operate a plane-bus service between the same points.

Grain Prices Will Continue Under Ceiling

MILK, DAIRY PRODUCTS FREED BY 51-27 VOTE

Majority Leader Barkley Leads Successful Fight For Grain Control

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP) — Risking another presidential veto, the senate tonight piled more items into a class which the OPA, if revived, may not touch—milk and dairy products, petroleum, cottonseed, soy beans and anything made from them.

Of four additional test votes to exempt specific commodities from revived price ceilings, following the exemption of meat and poultry yesterday, only one went the way the administration wanted. That was a proposal to remove grains from the control list, beaten 32 to 40.

"There has been so much backscratching it has resulted in a soreness that would exhaust all the liniment in Washington," remarked Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky), noting the support which senators interested in one particular item gave to those seeking exemption for other items.

More amendments are on tap for tomorrow. Nevertheless Barkley saw a "good chance" of passing by tomorrow night whatever legislation the Senate is willing to approve, but he sighed that "every new sunrise brings forth a new crop of speeches and amendments."

May Have Less Power

On the house side, Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) of the Banking Committee expressed the opinion that, the way the senate is going, its bill in the end may provide for less price control than the measure President Truman vetoed. He told reporters an effort may be made to substitute that bill when the senate's legislation reached the house, and send it back to Mr. Truman.

Additional decontrol amendments are expected covering tobacco and wood pulp. Barkley told newsmen, however, that a scrap over tobacco controls may be avoided because "we are trying to get the Agriculture Department to announce there will be no ceilings" on tobacco products in any event. The Secretary of Agriculture, instead of the OPA, would have the final say on agricultural price ceilings, as the bill stands now.

Several other amendments are pending in addition to the specific decontrol provisions. They include the controversial proposal by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) to give manufacturers and processors prices

Shoppers Find Ready Supply Of Beef Now; But Prices Are Up

BALTIMORE, July 10. (AP)—Housewives here found a ready supply of beef in markets today, at prices averaging about nine cents a pound more than former OPA ceilings but much less than those asked last week right after ceilings were eliminated.

Pork continued in short supply and there was not much lamb.

For the first time in many weeks there were no lines of waiting customers at meat counters and butchers were beginning to pile up a backlog in their refrigerators.

Prices on choice beef cuts stayed up, half again the former OPA ceilings, or around 25 cents a pound higher. But on more common cuts some butchers were asking less than the OPA limit.

Record Corn Crop And Big Grain Harvests Are Expected This Year

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—A record corn crop and near-record crops of wheat, oats, potatoes and rice were indicated by a government report today which said this year's farm production outlook has seldom been suspassed.

The condition of all crops on July 1 was the best in seven years except for 1942. The combined acreage of all crops has been exceeded since 1932 only in the past three years. Further, the indicated yields per acre of most crops are above average.

Perhaps the brightest part of the report was the forecast for grain, for supplies have been reduced to dangerously low levels by exports to hungry areas and by heavy feeding to livestock.

The department said the production of feed grains may be the largest on record. Should final production turn out as now indicated, production of livestock could be maintained near last year's levels through 1947.

The corn crop was forecast at 3,341,646,000 bushels, compared with in 1944. Last year's crop was 3,018,410,000 and production for the ten year (1935-44) average was 2,608,499,000.

The wheat crop was indicated at 1,090,092,000 bushel compared with 1,033,000,000 forecast in mid-June, a record of 1,123,143,000 produced last year, and a ten-year average of 843,692,000. Despite the bumper crop, wheat will be insufficient to meet both unrestricted domestic demands and foreign commitments for the year ahead.

The winter wheat crop was put at 857,163,000 compared with 823,177,000 last year and a ten-year average of 618,019,000. Durham wheat was forecast at 26,089,000 bushels compared with 35,020,000 last year and a ten-year average of 31,900,000. Production of other spring wheat was indicated at 206,840,000 bushels compared with 264,946,000 last year and a ten-year average of 193,774,000.

The outlook for other crops included:

Rye production may be the smallest since the drought of the 30's, the previous record of 3,228,000,000

Gromyko Unsuccessful In Attempt To Bar Canada From Atom Meeting

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, July 10. (AP)—Soviet Russia sought unsuccessfully by invoking the veto today to bar Canada from taking part in atomic-energy discussions in the United Nations security council. Australia simultaneously demanded that the whole veto question be aired at the coming general assembly meeting in September.

Over the objections of Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko, the security council invited Canada to the council table today at a session billed to consider rules adopted by the atomic energy commission. Canada is one of the nations which helped build the atomic bomb.

Letter Is Released

Gromyko told the council he reserved his right to bring up the question later. However, Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australia, in a brief, heated conversation with Gromyko after the council session said the question applied only to today's meeting; that Canada would have to be invited each time the council met to sit at the table if the council held that Canada's interests were involved.

Gromyko insisted after talking with Evatt that "the question is still open."

The United Nations secretariat released a letter from Evatt to the secretary-general requesting that the veto question be placed on the agenda of the general assembly meeting in September. Developments in the council, in which Russia has invoked the veto five times and sought to do so today, foreshadow an extended debate.

Gromyko did not choose to carry his stand on the veto to the showdown stage at this meeting.

McNaughton Sits With Council

General A. G. L. McNaughton, Canada's representative on the Atomic Energy Commission, sat with the council delegates during part of the heated discussion over whether he should have that right. Canada and the 11 nations on the security council make up the Atomic Energy Commission.

When the council met Dr. Herbert

He told the senate war investigating committee that he had asked Attorney General Clark to look into the complicated financial manipulations of the Erie Basin and the Batavia Metal Products Companies, affiliates of the Illinois chain.

He read into the records a response from the attorney general's office advising the war department that acceptance of an offer by Batavia to settle an "overpayment" on a war contract might make successful prosecution of a criminal case "more difficult."

Undersecretary Testifies

In a letter to Royall June 18, however, Assistant Attorney General Theron L. Caudle made it clear that the Justice department's inquiry was "not sufficiently complete for the department to express any opinion as to whether a criminal case will result."

The undersecretary testified that he asked for the inquiry after learning in May about a government "overpayment" to Batavia of more than $1,000,000 on a big contract for bomb parts.

He said that this "overpayment" stemmed from a $4,500,000 advance to Batavia in May of last year — part of which was repaid in the form of deliveries until contract termination left more than $1,000,000 outstanding.

In his letter to the attorney general, Royall asked for an inquiry into the "financial, earnings or cost" statements of both Batavia and Erie Basin. He told the committee that he understood the Justice department already was investigating the tax affairs of both companies.

Made "Tentative" Offer

Royall testified that Batavia had made a "tentative" offer of $959,855.69 to settle the government's claim by paying $140,000 down when an agreement was reached and $50,000 a month thereafter.

Testimony on the "overpayment" and the justice department investigation came amid these developments:

1. Testimony by Royall that chairman May (D-Ky) of the House Military committee attributed to him 10 months ago responsibility for a War department inquiry into May's connection with Erie Basin. Royall said that he denied it and that, a few days later, May called him aside, admitted he was mistaken, and said: "Just forget it."

2. Three promoters of the munition combine gave the committee a clear bill of health on statements that the committee's inquiry into their operations was motivated by anti-semitism. Telegrams came from Henry Garsson, described by army officers as "the brain" behind the combine, Allen B. Gellman and Joseph T. Weiss, saying the religious issue was raised without their authorization and that it was "without foundation."

Convict To Testify

3. Introduction of a report by Lt. Col. C. W. Chestham of the War Department Inspector General's office which said that the chemical warfare service's industrial division in Washington had "restrained" officers in the Chicago district from pressing for a prompt settlement of the overpayment to Batavia.

4. An announcement by Chairman Mead (D-NY) of the Senate committee that Benjamin Fields, a former convict, had informed the committee he is speeding to Washington to testify after "just returning from a business trip overseas." Senator Mitchell (D-Wash), a committee member, said previously that Fields had offered him a $5,000 campaign contribution if he could persuade his colleagues to "lay off" the inquiry. Fields, in a statement in Los Angeles, called Mitchell's allegation "asinine."

which will cover cost increases, and one by Senator Hawkes (R-NJ) to authorize 15 per cent rent increases by next March 31.

The petroleum amendment was adopted on a rollcall vote of 40 to 30, shortly after a proposal to exempt grains had been defeated, 32 to 40.

The amendment exempting gasoline, oil and all other petroleum products from revived price ceilings was sponsored by Senator Moore (R-Okla). It forbids the imposition of price controls unless a decontrol board to be set up under the bill finds the supply insufficient to meet the domestic demand.

Oil Exceeds Demand

Moore and senators from oil-producing states said there is no reason to reinstate controls over gasoline and other products because the supply exceeds all demands.

Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky) pleaded with the Senate to let the proposed decontrol board handle the petroleum question along with other matters.

After this vote the Senate recessed until noon tomorrow.

Previous voting lines split apart as the Senate rejected the grain amendment offered by Republican Senator Reed from the important wheat-producing state of Kansas.

Previously the chamber had tied a veto invitation to the OPA revival bill by voting 51 to 27 to exempt milk and dairy products from price control if and when it is revived.

A couple of hours earlier the Senate had adopted a similar exemption for cotton seed, soy beans and products made from them. That vote was 42 to 34.

Livestock, meat and poultry controls came out of the bill yesterday by a 49-to-26 roll call.

Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky) led the successful battle against the grains amendment tonight by asserting that it would affect the price of bread and other foods on every American table.

But other attempts to write exemptions into the measure were in the offing. A number of senators wanted specific decontrols on tobacco, gasoline and petroleum.

Changes Distasteful

From the way Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky) and other administration wheelhorses lined up against the amendments it was obvious the changes were extremely distasteful to the Democratic high command. But the administration had lost control of the situation to a coalition of Republicans and Democrats.

Eighteen Democrats balloted to bar controls over milk and its products. The only Republican who voted with Barkley was Senator Revercomb of West Virginia.

Barkley declined to express an opinion as to whether President Truman would reject a measure loaded down with specific decontrols. But Mr. Truman gave strong hint of his attitude June 29, when he vetoed the first price control extension bill.

He said then that he did not object to the formulation of standards for decontrol, or to the establishment of an independent decontrol board to review applications for the lifting of controls—"provided that the standards were modified to make sure that, during the next crucial six months, ceilings do not have to be lifted where it is clear that serious price rises would result."

Shows Rises

Chairman Wagner (D-NY) of the Banking committee has estimated that the forced decontrol of meat, poultry and dairy products alone would add between $4,350,000,000 and $6,000,000,000 to the nation's yearly food bill. Barkley daily is presenting statistics to the Senate showing the rise in commodity levels.

Before the Senate voted on the cotton seed-soy beans amendment, Barkley pleaded with his colleagues to refrain from adding provisions which he said would make the bill "ridiculous." He got a quick answer —15 Democrats lined up with 27 Republicans to approve the exemption.

Senator Eastland (D-Miss), sponsor of the amendment, argued that with controls removed from animal fats and oils under the meat amendment, they must come off competing vegetable oils also, to prevent "chaos and havoc." Barkley repeated it was unwise to attach "ridiculous amendments" out of deference to local interests and local advantages.

Taking Long Chance

Senator Wherry, of Nebraska, the Republican whip, sponsored both the meat and dairy decontrol amendments. Arguing for the latter, he declared that the absence of price controls would spur the production of needed milk, and that increased output would bring lower prices.

Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis) said he had to support the dairy amendment in view of the previous adoption of meat decontrol. The relationship between the dairy and livestock industries would be "completely upset," he declared, unless both were placed on an economic par. He explained that dairy herds might be sold for slaughter.

Nevertheless, LaFollette said he thought "we are taking a long chance of licking inflation without controls."

Record Corn Crop

The production of oats—vital as livestock feed—was indicated at a near record of 1,471,026,000 bushels. Barley production was indicated to be the smallest since 1937.

The expected tonnage of hay is below the level of the past four years, but the carry-over of old hay is large.

One of the least favorable parts of the report was a forecast that production of oil seed crops—soy beans, peanuts and flax seed—will be below high wartime levels. The oil seeds provide materials for margerine, shortening, salad oils and paints. Supplies of food fats and oils are now far short of domestic demands.

Large crops of tobacco, citrus and most other fruits were forecast.

Production of dry beans and sweet potatoes will be below average.

The report said production of milk and eggs is being maintained at near-record levels.

Gromyko

V. Evatt, Australia, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, proposed formally that Canada be invited to sit with the council in discussions on atomic matters but without a vote.

Gromyko, who invoked the veto three times at the last council meeting on the Spanish question, immediately objected. He said it was a new question requiring time for study and asked that it be postponed.

Dr. Castillo Najera, council chairman, called for a vote and the count was nine nations for the resolution, Russia against and Poland abstaining.

Gromyko then announced it was a question of substance and his negative vote was a veto.

Castillo Najera ruled the question was one of procedure and invited the Canadian representative to the table.

No Immediate Reaction

The United States note supported almost completely the ideas presented by Figl to the extraordinary session of the parliament, when he announced that his government was not prepared to accept the Soviet interpretation of German assets in the Russian zone. He said that virtually the only property which could be claimed under the Potsdam agreement as German assets was that which the Germans had owned before 1938, the year of Anschluss.

Except for shock and nerves, Rosemary was not hurt and in spite of the thousands of people who have been milling around the scene of the disaster for three days, refused to go to the hospital for observation. Ironically enough, she is an old friend of Howard's having met him 12 years ago when she was doing summer stock at Laguna.

What's the good of having a father who is casting director at a movie studio if a gal can't promote herself a job. Rita Lynn, daughter of Ben Piazza, head man of RKO's casting office, has landed herself the role of a Mexican senorita in "Code of the West" with James Warren and Debra Alden. The thing I love about this story is that it comes "straight" without the usual gag, "her father didn't know a thing about it until she walked in with the contract in her hand." Rita, incidentally, is a striking looking brunette who could have landed the job even without pappy if she's wanted to—because she happens to be just the type.

Irwin Shaw, who wrote the screenplay on "Arch of Triumph," is asking that he not be given screen credit on it because Director Lewis Milestone has made so many changes that the script is practically his. This sounded like a polite feud to these suspicious ears, but on checking, it seems that Shaw is completely on the level with no hard feelings. The much touted Erich Remarque novel starts July 15 and for the first 31 days of shooting only Ingrid Bergman and Charles Boyer appear before the camera.

He told the senate war investigating committee that he had asked Attorney General Clark to look into the complicated financial manipulations of the Erie Basin and the Batavia Metal Products Companies, affiliates of the Illinois chain.

He read into the records a response from the attorney general's office advising the war department that acceptance of an offer by Batavia to settle an "overpayment" on a war contract might make successful prosecution of a criminal case "more difficult."

Undersecretary Testifies

In a letter to Royall June 18, however, Assistant Attorney General Theron L. Caudle made it clear that the Justice department's inquiry was "not sufficiently complete for the department to express any opinion as to whether a criminal case will result."

The undersecretary testified that he asked for the inquiry after learning in May about a government "overpayment" to Batavia of more than $1,000,000 on a big contract for bomb parts.

He said that this "overpayment" stemmed from a $4,500,000 advance to Batavia in May of last year — part of which was repaid in the form of deliveries until contract termination left more than $1,000,000 outstanding.

In his letter to the attorney general, Royall asked for an inquiry into the "financial, earnings or cost" statements of both Batavia and Erie Basin. He told the committee that he understood the Justice department already was investigating the tax affairs of both companies.

Made "Tentative" Offer

Royall testified that Batavia had made a "tentative" offer of $959,855.69 to settle the government's claim by paying $140,000 down when an agreement was reached and $50,000 a month thereafter.

Testimony on the "overpayment" and the justice department investigation came amid these developments:

1. Testimony by Royall that chairman May (D-Ky) of the House Military committee attributed to him 10 months ago responsibility for a War department inquiry into May's connection with Erie Basin. Royall said that he denied it and that, a few days later, May called him aside, admitted he was mistaken, and said: "Just forget it."

2. Three promoters of the munition combine gave the committee a clear bill of health on statements that the committee's inquiry into their operations was motivated by anti-semitism. Telegrams came from Henry Garrson, described by army officers as "the brain" behind the combine, Allen B. Gellman and Joseph T. Weiss, saying the religious issue was raised without their authorization and that it was "without foundation."

Convict To Testify

3. Introduction of a report by Lt. Col. C. W. Cheatham of the War Department Inspector General's office which said that the chemical warfare service's industrial division in Washington had "restrained" officers in the Chicago district from pressing for a prompt settlement of the overpayment to Batavia.

4. An announcement by Chairman Mead (D-NY) of the Senate committee that Benjamin Fields, a former convict, had informed the committee he is speeding to Washington to testify after "just returning from a business trip overseas." Senator Mitchell (D-Wash), a committee member, said previously that Fields had offered him a $5,000 campaign contribution if he could persuade his colleagues to "lay off" the inquiry. Fields, in a statement in Los Angeles, called Mitchell's allegation "asinine."

were anxious about Rosemary de Camp who is expecting a baby July 15. It has been falsely reported that she was injured by flying debris when Howard's plane tragically crashed into three homes in Beverly Hills—one being hers. The first thing Howard asked was, "did I hurt anybody?"

Except for shock and nerves, Rosemary was not hurt and in spite of the thousands of people who have been milling around the scene of the disaster for three days, refused to go to the hospital for observation. Ironically enough, she is an old friend of Howard's having met him 12 years ago when she was doing summer stock at Laguna.

What's the good of having a father who is casting director at a movie studio if a gal can't promote herself a job. Rita Lynn, daughter of Ben Piazza, head man of RKO's casting office, has landed herself the role of a Mexican senorita in "Code of the West" with James Warren and Debra Alden. The thing I love about this story is that it comes "straight" without the usual gag, "her father didn't know a thing about it until she walked in with the contract in her hand." Rita, incidentally, is a striking looking brunette who could have landed the job even without pappy if she's wanted to—because she happens to be just the type.

Irwin Shaw, who wrote the screenplay on "Arch of Triumph," is asking that he not be given screen credit on it because Director Lewis Milestone has made so many changes that the script is practically his. This sounded like a polite feud to these suspicious ears, but on checking, it seems that Shaw is completely on the level with no hard feelings. The much touted Erich Remarque novel starts July 15 and for the first 31 days of shooting only Ingrid Bergman and Charles Boyer appear before the camera.

No wonder the kids are crazy about William Boyd. On August 9 at Long Beach, he's starting the first of a series of personal appearances at which no admission will be charged. The gathering will be held outdoors and just my way of giving the youngsters a real thrill, Bill takes along his famous white horse, "Topper." "Nickles and dimes mean a lot to kids," Bill says, "and why should they pay to look at me? They made me what I am." This first appearance is sponsored by the Boys Sports Carnival, the Board of Education and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Hollywood in shorts: John Hodiak did not want a double ring ceremony but that didn't stop Anne Baxter from gifting him with a simple gold band which she slipped on his finger after the wedding; Whitney Bourne, former screen charmer, is heading for a California honeymoon with her bridegroom Arthur Osgood Choate of the veddy, veddy social set; Connie Bennett deeply upset over the sudden death of Gladys Young, her former secretary, who had been with her 17 years. Miss Young died of a heart attack in a Los Angeles cafe. Funeral services are at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon at Forest Lawn; Judy Garland's mother has gone to the peace and quiet of Laguna Beach to finish the novel she's writing which Judy says is daggone good; the new heartbeat in Gilbert Roland's life, Mimi Schnael, was with him at the Kings; Mrs. Darryl Zanuck's brother, Freddie Fox, and his bride are honeymooning in Nevada. She is the widow of Charles Mack of the old comedy team of Moran and Mack; Ronald Colman taking the beating of his life working in front of a fireplace giving out a temperature of 110 on "The Late George Apley"—and it's July yet! Errol Flynn, who is being a very good boy these days, had to get rid of the Myna bird mascot on his boat because every-time he brought a guest aboard the bird started cussing like a galley cook; Gregory Peck gave New York just a quick once over before heading for his summer stock stint in "Playboy of the Western World." Summer Stock Is The thing this season what with Tallulah Bankhead wowing them in "Private Lives" and June Havoc getting raves in "They Knew What They Wanted." Only Ruth Chatterton seems to have come out on the wrong end of the reviews in "Second Best Bed." That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Congressman May Should Testify

Representative Andrew Jackson May's oration in the House this week, had much in it about the Constitution, civil rights, horny-handed sons of toil and the flower of American manhood fighting and dying on foreign soil. But it left unanswered many questions that might properly be asked about how Congressman May, chairman of the House Military Affairs committee happened to get mixed up with a bunch of shady characters involved in $78,000,000 worth of war contracts, and Army-Navy "E" awards based on political pull. It left unexplained the mystery of the Cumberland Lumber Company, to which $48,000 allegedly was paid for lumber that was not delivered.

Congressman May should appear voluntarily before the Meade committee investigating war profits, submit himself to questions and give testimony under oath. And if he doesn't go voluntarily, he should be compelled to go, by joint resolution of Congress. Mr. May talked feelingly of the "rights of the humblest citizen." But any "humble citizen" would have been hauled before the committee and subjected to severe cross-examination long since, and, had he refused to testify, would have been jailed.

It is obvious that the story of the Garsson munitions enterprises is just beginning to be told. What a villainous plot unfolds, of the attempted bribe of one senator, of the effort to bribe a committee investigator by offering him a job to run the campaign of another senator, of a $16,000 food and liquor party charged to the taxpayers, of company checks being cashed by a notorious gambler!

And what a cast of characters involved in the melodrama—former associates of Gangster Dutch Schultz, ex-convicts and confidence men, banded together in the cause of supplying the Arsenal of Democracy, for profit.

In the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills scandal that rocked the nation 20-odd years ago the most sensational disclosure revolved around "the little black bag," containing $100,000. That was chicken feed. Most of the principals in that melodrama of the Harding-Coolidge decade ended up in court, and some of them in jail. If some of those who have been publicized in the current scandal wind up in criminal court behind the bars, they will not feel away from home. But if anyone connected with this case is treated tenderly, what shall we say of the standard of public morals in the year 1946?

The post-war world must be a bitter disappointment to the New York Giants' fans whose favorite club is hanging around the National league cellar.

Price Control As Viewed By Economist

Some virtue is seen by Charles O. Hardy, vice-president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City in continuing "selective price control" in cases where acute shortages still exist, but has little good to say about price control as an institution. Dr. Hardy was for some years a member of the staff of the Brookings Institution, where he was author or co-author of numerous important studies dealing with the functioning of the American economy.

In a recent article by him, and published by the Federal Reserve Board, he stated that accidents of control distort the relative profitability of various lines, with the result that management tends to allocate production, not to the lines where there is the greatest unsatisfied demand, but to those where price ceilings are most favorable.

Ceilings not only do not hasten, but may delay, the restoration of normal supply conditions, he notes, and he considers them particularly futile when unaccompanied by a plan of rationing. In such circumstances, he points out, allocation has to be determined by "dealer favoritism, the formation of queues or the tossing of a coin." Or, he might add, in the jungle of the black market, where available supplies are syphoned off by those in a position to outbid the average consumer.

Dr. Hardy is not unaware of the danger of fiscal inflation, though he apparently is less alarmed about it than some other economists. Decontrol of prices where there is a redundancy of money, he declares, accelerates spending, which in turn accelerates production and, "likely as not, prices." Expansion continues until prices and the volume of trade reach a level where the money supply is no longer excessive. Unless in the interim "a speculative boom has been most generated the price trend will level off." This type of inflation has been most typical of the American economy in recent years, Dr. Hardy observes, accounting for the phenomenon of 1915-16, the recovery after 1921 and the upturn of 1933-35.

Dr. Hardy finds the wage situation the most serious inflation threat and is of the opinion that if the government continues its policy of constantly supporting demands for higher wages it will step up "the prospective rate of inflation to an extent that cannot be predicted. He sees the difficulty arising less from a deficient supply of goods and an oversupply of money than from the fact of full employment of labor. Collective bargaining by strong unions enjoying a favored position is incompatible with price stability and full employment, he declares. And he adds: "We can have any two of these, but not all three. So long as union power is not dampened down by unemployment there is no apparent power in the state strong enough to check a powerful upward sweep of wages and prices."

It costs 44 per cent more to build a house today than in 1940.

Government Sale Of Surplus Property

An emphasis on speed is beginning to appear in the activities of the War Assets Administration. In May the sale of surplus properties totaled $233,000,000 and if objectives of the WAA are met, monthly sales at original cost values soon will be boosted to $1,500,000,000, which would bring to the treasury probably $400,000,000 at surplus prices. This speedup is being accomplished through more "site sales," whereby purchases may be made where the goods are located.

Although there has been a rather greater demand for the government to reduce its towering stockpiles of supplies as quickly as possible, there is an inherent obligation on the part of the WAA to conduct these sales in a manner which will cause the least disruption of normal commercial activities. Release of some supplies, such as building materials, may serve as a bottleneck breaker in a housing situation which has made this land of plenty in reality a land of untenable, unnecessary and scandalous scarcity.

Other commercial fields, however, do not look upon this release of huge surpluses with fond expectation. The drug industry for one, could suffer considerably by hasty and unwise freeing of government stores of medicines, although to date most of these drugs have gone into channels — relief projects abroad, new foreign markets, etc.— that have not greatly affected the manufacturers.

Up to the end of May property originally costing the government—which is to say the taxpayers—$17,000,000,000 had been declared surplus and at that time approximately 20 per cent of it had been sold. In the disposal of the remainder of the goods, it is perhaps inevitable that private interests will suffer in some instances. But it is the duty of the government to see that such dislocations are held to a minimum.

The government has no place in regular commercial markets.

Certain South American natives, we read, would cover their bodies in wet weather with liquid rubber which then dried. Zadok Dumkopf wonders if this isn't the origin of the girdle.

Birds Of The Sea May Lose Their Home

Ornithologists in England protested the royal navy's announced intention of blowing up the German island fortress of Helgoland. Migratory birds, they say, will suffer. A senior naval officer replied with this statement, "I can only assure them that when we have finished it will be the most wonderful bird sanctuary—nothing but a pile of rocks."

Helgoland was a German fleet and submarine lair for 50 years. According to the treaty of Versailles, the kaiser's naval base there was to be destroyed, and the Germans submitted a solemn report to the Allied authorities soon afterward that the demilitarization had duly taken place.

Somewhere in the years between the two world wars, those fortifications reappeared and no one seemed to know how nor care much. But the world soon identified the migratory birds that issued forth from the island in Hitler's war as submarines and raiding planes and ships—dark buzzards of prey.

Now this refuge for the scavengers of the sea is to be destroyed. On the rocks that jut out of the cold waters of the North Sea, marking where Helgoland once existed, birds of peace will alight and take rest. They will be able to hatch their young from nests unfouled by a German war brood.

A new flyswatter perfumes the air as it is swung about. So far, no fly has commented on the improvement.

Should Have Known What To Expect

Walter Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, was the director of the union's General Motor's strike, the first big strike in a major industry after the war ended.

The strike succeeded in that workers in the automobile industry won pay raises of approximately 18½ cents an hour and set the pattern for a wave of other strikes in other major industries in which settlement was on a similar basis.

The General Motors strike—and the others like it—failed in that wages cannot go up without price increases to pay them. Wages went up for union workers all along the line. Prices went up all along the line, too. The advantage to anybody is hard to discover.

Now Reuther admits it. Rising prices, he says, have already cost his union most of what it gained in the four-month General Motors strike—to say nothing of what it lost in the work stoppage period itself.

Reuther ought to know. He started it. He ought to have known before he started it. Without the interruptions to full production and without the inflation which now burdens everyone, the nation would have been better off.

Biggest surprise of the OPA fight was when the President took on the Senator from Ohio and wound up in an old-fashioned Tafty pull.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Congressman May Wanted $3,000 Telephone Conversations Disclose; Nazi Diplomat Tells How U. S. Congressmen Were Subsidized; Previous Exposes Substantiated.

By DREW PEARSON

Washington, July 10—Those who sat on the inside of the Erie Basin Metals Products, office during the heyday of its lush war orders racket say that some amazing telephone conservations took place.

Usually the name of the company's Congressional godfather, Representative May of Kentucky, was not mentioned over the phone—though his name was frequently mentioned in private talks around the office. Instead May's code name "Yiechel" was used on the telephone. Or at other times he was referred to as "our friend."

Here is how May's name slipped into one very incriminating telephone conversation. Joseph Freeman of the Washington office was phoning the main production office in Batavia, Ill., and after talking to Henry Garsson regarding some technical matters, Freeman asked to be switched to the accounting department.

"What about that piece of paper?" he asked.

"What do you mean?" the chief accountant replied.

Freeman hesitated a minute, then said:

"You know . . . that thousand dollars for Yiechel."

"Oh, that went in the mail yesterday," was the reply.

—o—

On another occasion, Congressman May himself called the Washington office of Erie Basin. Usually he was most discreet in talking on the phone, but this time Erie Basin employees surmised he was talking from a pay station, for, after talking about various matters, he abruptly said:

"Say, what about that three thousand dollars?"

Mr. Freeman replied that it would be along in a couple of days.

On another occasion, Congressman May phoned to ask for Freeman and was told by Louis Sarelas, then in charge of the Washington office:

"Freeman's up in New York making us a lot of money."

May became very indignant at this. "I beg your pardon," he said, and hung up.

When May was next in the office personally, he apologized to Sarelas for having been high-hat with him over the telephone. He explained that Sarelas should be careful never to talk the way he did over the phone again.

—o—

U. S. Army and Justice Department investigators in Germany have had some confidential and highly significant talks with Hitler's former diplomats in Washington. Their amazing testimony should be of interest to every American as an indication how foreign propaganda can poison people's minds. The testimony also happens to be of especial interest to this column.

On Sept. 13, 1940, this column published certain facts in the strange airplane death of Senator Ernest Lundeen of Minnesota; among other things, that Senator Lundeen had delivered speeches on the floor of the Senate written for him by a paid Nazi agent, George Sylvester Viereck; and that, at the time of his death, Lundeen was under investigation by the Justice Department.

These facts were immediately denied by the then Attorney General Robert Jackson, and the column was denounced on the floor of the Senate by Bennett C. Clark of Missouri and Burton K. Wheeler of Montana. No U. S. Senator, they said, would think of besmirching the fair name of the U. S. Senate by delivering on its floor a speech written by a foreign agent.

Mrs. Lundeen also threatened suit, and the Bloomington, Ill., Pantagraph, canceling the column, criticized it editorially as follows:

"On the basis of mere popularity, if they were the sole standard by which we publish a newspaper, Merry - Go - Round would be in its usual place today. However, it will not return. . . . There are only 96 Senators. To say that one of them was being shadowed by Federal agents on a suspicion of treason was serious enough. . . . But the Lundeen item was written without a shred of published newspaper evidence in its support. This was a violation of newspaper ethics as practiced by this newspaper. . . . That is why there will be no more Merry-Go-Round in the paper."

—o—

Despite this, the Merry-Go-Round continued to published other exposes of Nazi propaganda: How Representative Hamilton Fish (N. Y.) rented his New York home to the Nazi consulate at a high figure and how he was being used by Nazi agents; how Nazi agent Viereck formed Flanders Hall of Scotch Plains, N. J., as a propaganda blind; how the Hauck family, officially the publishers of Flanders Hall, put out such anti-British books as "The 100 Families That Rule the Empire," "The Hapless Boers," "Democracy on the Nile," "Lord Lothian vs. Lord Lothian"; how these books were promoted by Father Coughlin and Elizabeth Dilling; and how Viereck wrote a book for Congressman Stephen Day of Illinois, "We Must Save the Republic," published by Flanders Hall.

This column also reported that Viereck, an American citizen, received $1,000 a month from the German Library of Information, and that the cover of these propaganda books, paid for by Germany, bore the appeal: "Dear fellow American: We ask the support of all those who believe with us in America first and America only."

—o—

In Germany, the other day, Dr. Heribert von Strempel, former first secretary of the German Embassy in Washington, finally confirmed in complete detail these reports published six months earlier. Capt. Sam Harris of the U. S. Army interrogated him.

After bringing out the fact that Viereck was employed as the chief Nazi propagandist for Germany in the U.S.A., Captain Harris asked: I'd now like to return to the role which Viereck played in this studied program, which the Nazi Government had worked out to keep the United States out of the war. You mentioned yesterday that Viereck was appointed public relations counselor of the German Library of Information.

Von Strempel: Yes.

Captain Harris: Did he also have any connection with the Flanders Hall enterprise which you mentioned yesterday?

A. Yes.

Q. Please explain to us the precise details of that connection.

A. Flanders Hall was run by two brothers named Hauck, under Viereck's direction.

Q. Exactly what did Flanders Hall do?

A. The manuscripts of certain books came from the Foreign Office in Berlin in the diplomatic pouch or otherwise, and then went to the German Library of Information, Viereck selected from those manuscripts those which he thought might criticize and unmask British propaganda and egotistic British foreign policy, and which could easily be sold in the United States.

Q. Then what happened?

A. Viereck would publish these books at Flanders Hall. If he thought a financial risk was involved, he would contact me, and say that the costs would amount to $5,000 or sometimes even to $10,000.

Q. What did you do?

A. I drafted a report for the Chief of Mission, which was cabled to Berlin and, after having received approval, Viereck would receive the money. He always received lump sums of 5 to 10 thousand dollars.

Q. Do you recall the names of the books that you and the Foreign Office approved, and whose publication by Flanders Hall you directly financed?

—o—

A. I remember "Lothian versus Lothian," "English Policy in India," "English Policy in Ireland," "English Policy in Palestine," "Britain's 100 Families," by the German author, G. Wirsing. The manuscripts of these books had come originally from Berlin, and were then published by Viereck after I had advanced funds for him.

Q. Did the publication of each of these books entail a loss?

A. I don't know. I don't believe so. Books about Ireland sold easily. 'Lothian versus Lothian" was a big success. The book on India sold well. Some didn't sell so well.

Q. If no loss was sustained in the publication of any book, did Viereck return the money you had given him?

A. No. He kept it.

Q. Did he also keep all profits on books he distributed through Flanders Hall?

A. Yes.

Q. How much did you give to Viereck to carry out his propaganda activities?

A. Between 70 and 120,000 dollars during the period 1939 to 1941.

Q. Did the manuscripts of all books published by Flanders Hall originate in Germany?

A. No, I believe that Flanders Hall also published one or two books by Congressman Stephen Day about British propaganda.

Q. Did Viereck help write any of these books?

A. I don't know. He may have helped Congressman Day. I seem to remember Viereck saying he had written down some highlights for Congressman Day.

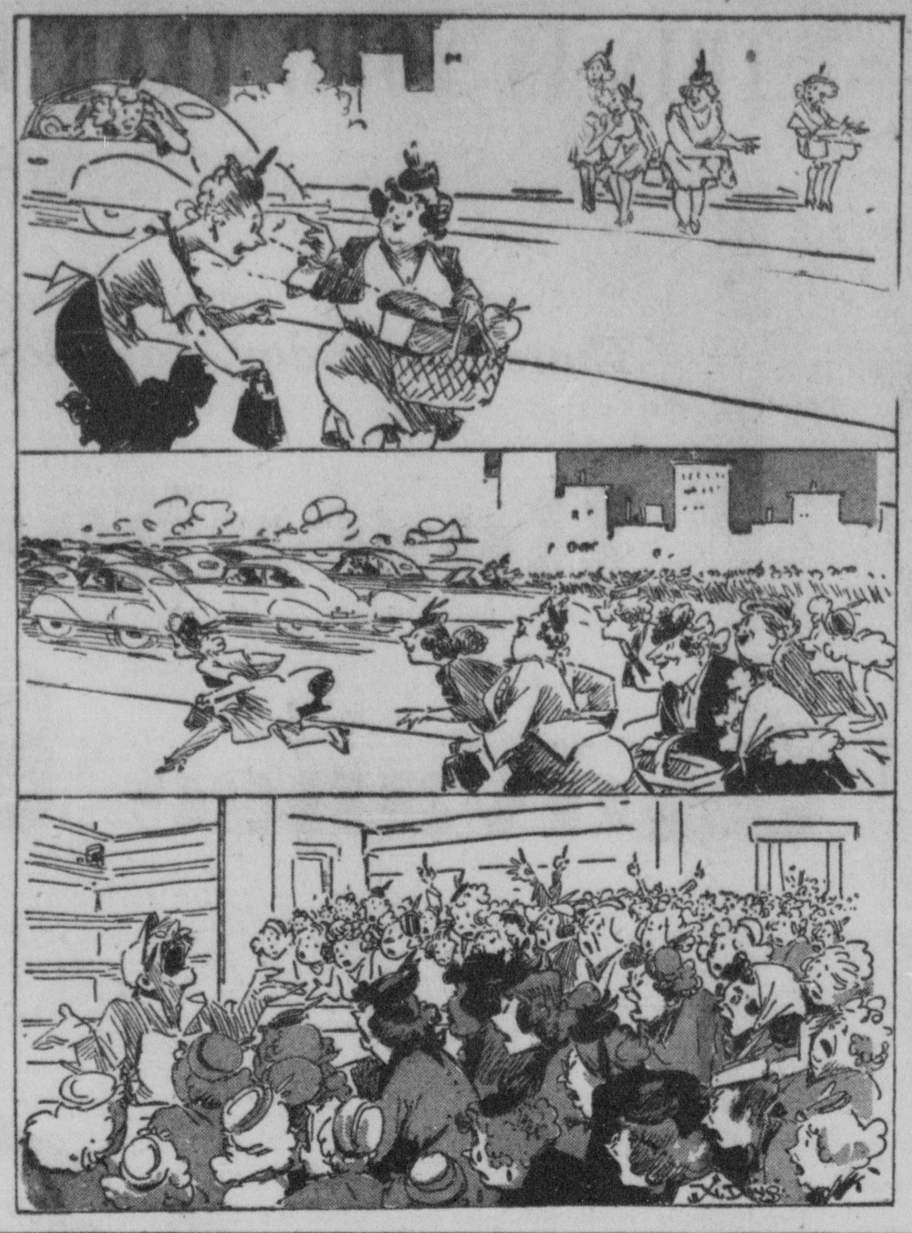

Q. Did Viereck ever mention the name of Senator Lundeen to you?

A. Yes.

Note—Another column continuing the revelations of the Nazi propaganda machine in the U.S.A will follow soon.

WANTED--A NEW MIRACLE OF THE LOAVES AND FISHES

President Truman Being Proved Wrong In His Tactics Over OPA

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 10—Very little has been accomplished since President Truman vetoed the price control bill—very little to change the situation that existed before.

When the Senate voted this week to retain the Wherry amendment whereby meat, livestock and poultry are exempted from price controls, the members said all over again what they had said before. Apparently the organized campaign by governmnt agencies and labor unions to get Congress to dispose of the Wherry amendment has not succeeded. The senators have been watching the rapid flow of livestock into markets at reasonable prices in the last few days without any governmnt controls. Predictions of dire catastrophe have not materialized.

Truman Being Proved Wrong

What is more important, however, is that the President is being proved wrong in his tactics. He is not likely to veto another bill, and it looks now as if the measure which will be presented to him will contain some of the objectionable features to which he referred in his veto message. What was the good of a veto then?

It is a source of much wonder hereabouts that the president, who was a member of the United States Senate, misconstrued the majority will of that body and endeavored by means of a veto to force a change, especially on matters which are so closely related to the home constituencies and the votes in the regions affected.

Thus, senators from livestock-raising states are not likely to vote any differently now than they did two months ago. The same pressure to get rid of black markets and let prices be fixed as a result of supply and demand exists now—in fact, it is perhaps even more intense today than before the veto because the country has had an actual experience of markets without government controls or subsidies.

When the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Majority Leader of the Senate both tell a president that the bill before him is the best that can be obtained and when both these advisers are leaders of a president's own party, there must be strong reasons to disregard and even discard their advice.

In Especially Weak Position

Mr. Truman is in an especially weak position when he asks Congress to write another bill, because he is asking a tired leadership to seek the passage of a bill which that leadership has virtually no hope of passing. Nothing is more discouraging to congressional leaders than to attempt to oblige a president who doesn't want to accept advice on a situation on Capitol Hill with which they are more familiar than he is.

Most of the debate on the price control bill thus far has been in the Senate, but when the reconstructed measure gets through the upper House it will again have to be considered by the lower House. While there is some prospect that the legislation may be completed before the end of this week and considered by the House next week, the chances are that the attitude of the White House toward the new measure will be known by the time the Senate completes action.

Period Of Uncertainty Injurious

Meanwhile, many producers have been holding off in the setting of prices until they could find out what the Congress would do. The period of uncertainty is injurious to the economic life of the country and it has some international repercussions as well. Hence the sooner Congress acts and the president makes known his views, the better the opportunity for business to settle down to production.

Were it not for the veto of the OPA bill, it is believed that the first of July would have ushered in a period of rapidly increasing production. Settlement of some of the major strikes had cleared the air somewhat and industry was ready to go ahead when the OPA was knocked out by the President's failure to sign the measure which Congress had submitted to him.

May Accept Advice

Mr. Truman's action was a surprise to the nation and to Congress and it is not likely that the president will again go against the advice of his leaders. For to do so would be to subject the country once more to economic disturbances which can be avoided.

When the new bill is passed—and it is now said the president will sign almost anything he receives from Congress—the plan is for both Houses to adjourn. This in itself tends to remove many uncertainties which often cause business men to hesitate. Once Congress completes pending legislation or abandons attempts to pass certain current measures, the country can have a breathing spell.

"IT SAYS HERE" By Bob Hope

Mobile, Alabama—We're really in the deep South now, in fact, Mobile is so far South the natives say, "You-all-all." We took off this morning from Richmond and landed at Birmingham for our matinee. At the Birmingham Airport I ran into "Happy" Chandler, the singing baseball czar and his daughter Mimi, who were just leaving after coming down to look over a high school all-star ball game. Happy thinks and talks about nothing but baseball these days. As I walked up to him I could hear him muttering to Mimi about "getting rid of this foul ball." After our matinee we took off about six for the hour and a half hop to Mobile and spent about twenty minutes of it flying thru the middle of a thunderstorm. This caused us to lose a little time as the pilot had to turn around twice and go back for my stomach.

First it got pitch dark and the girls started to scream. Then the stewardess switched on the lights and made me get back in my own seat. Pretty soon lightning started to flash around us and an accident occurred. Eddie Rio and I both sprained our knee caps trying to sit on each other's laps at the same time . . . But we landed okay and were greeted by my old friend Colonel Buck Rawlins of Brookley Field. We did our evening omelette there at the field house and it was really hot. The people wouldn't stop applauding. I said, "So you like the show?" And one guy yelled back, "No, this is the only way we can keep a breeze going." It is really humid here in Mobile. It's different from California. You perspire so much here you have to wear your raincoat on the inside.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, July 10 (CP) — Congress and the United Nations now are considering an important matter wholly unrelated to war.

They are pondering whether to recommend that the world adopt a perpetual calendar.

A serious young student named William Edwards first thought of the perpetual calendar when a student in the Quincy, Mass., high school. He considered the present calendar confusing. The Caesars, he told his teacher, have done us wrong!

Now a lieutenant commander, stationed at the Ford island air base on Oahu, Edwards is still convinced he has done a better job than did the old Romans.

Edwards thought up a perpetual calendar. His calendar starts each week on Monday, agreeing with common business practice, and permits Saturday and Sunday to become the week-end in fact as well as in name.

His calendar would have Easter come on April 14 of every year, removing some small confusion. The Monday following Easter would become a legal holiday.

Another novelty: New Year's Day has no date. It is simply an extra day to be known by that name.

The old adage would not apply. Now it would be: "Thirty days hath January, February, April, May, July, August, October and November."

The year proper would start the following day, Monday, and would have 364 days, with 52 weeks, so divided that the calendar remains the same, year after year.

Every fourth year there would be an extra "year day," or Leap Year Day to be observed between June 31 and July 1. This would mark the half-way point in the year, and be a legal holiday.

Edwards claims these advantages for his calendar:

1—Setting aside of New Year's Day and Leap Year Day as separate days allows division of the remaining 364 days into exactly 52 full weeks.

2—Monday is made the first day of the week in agreement with common business practice and Saturday and Sunday become the week-end on the calendar as well as in fact.

3—The last business day of each quarter, the 90th day, falls on a Saturday, which is convenient for completing quarterly tax records, government reports, bookkeeping and stock-taking. However, another day, the 91st, still remains as the year has equal quarters of 91 days each.

4—There is no so-called "unlucky Friday-the-thirteenth," or "Black Friday" in the entire year to worry the superstitious or deter business deals or signing of contracts.

5—The first, 15th and 30th, common payroll, bill-paying and accounting days, all fall on week-days.

6—The day of the week for any date in the year may be figured easily by remembering "30, 30, 31," the number of days in the three months of each quarter, and "Monday, Wednesday, Friday," the week-days on which the months of each quarter begin.

7—Easter Sunday on April 14 is close to the original historic date and with a fixed Easter there would be six three-day holidays every year since a "President's Day" is proposed for Monday, February 13, in addition to an "Easter Day" on the Monday following Easter Sunday. In Leap Year, of course, there would be seven three-day holidays.

8—Anniversaries and holidays would always fall on the same day of the week.

9—There would be 26 weekdays or working days in every month.

What came to Edwards as a challenge from his teacher has become an international issue. It has received wide endorsement.

Stassen Remains Presidential Possibility

By MARK SULLIVAN

The Republican primary election in Minnesota was one of those events in which news is made by what did not happen. One candidate for the Senatorial nomination was backed by ex-Governor Harold E. Stassen. It was said that if Mr. Stassen's candidate should be defeated, the effect on Mr. Stassen's own political fortunes, as a possibility for the Republican Presidential nomination in 1948, would be serious. It was recalled that Mr. Stassen, a few weeks ago, had backed another candidate for a Republican Senatorial nomination, in a nearby state, Nebraska, and his candidate was beaten. It was said that if this experience should be followed by a similar one in his own state, Mr. Stassen would be out of the Republican presidential picture.

So he would, very probably. It was not necessary to take the Nebraska incident into account, the test in Minnesota alone was enough. A political leader who does not command his party in his own state is rarely nominated for the presidency.

Remains GOP Possibility

But that did not happen to Mr. Stassen in Minnesota. On the contrary his candidate won, heavily. By that, Mr. Stassen remains a possibility for the Republican presidential nomination, a vigorous one

In the Minnesota contest, the candidate Mr. Stassen opposed, present and longtime senator Shipstead, had been, in his Senate career for some years, an isolationist. Mr. Stassen has been the opposite of that. In the sense of his record since this arose as an issue, Mr. Stassen has stood in front as an advocate of international cooperation He was for a greater degree of international cooperation than was proposed by the late Wendell Willkie, who was a pioneer in this policy. Mr. Stassen advocated a broader and stronger world organization than was actually set up as the United Nations at San Francisco last year.

Isolation Had Material Weight

To cite this is not to show how much or how little so-called isolation may have been an issue in the Minnesota primary. Possibly, because of the extreme record of the defeated Senator Shipstead, the issue may have had material weight.

But as respects the country as a whole, the international issue needs to be brought up to date, in the light of the evolution through which the country has passed. Five and six years ago "isolationist" was used to describe persons who held that the United States should avoid involvment in the war. One who held that position was Republican Senator Vandenberg of Michigan. Today Senator Vandenberg is one of the half dozen most ernest and useful individuals engaged in bringing about international cooperation.

Most of America has passed through the same evolution. Today America is committed to international cooperation, and to the United Nations.

In setting up the machinery of cooperation, issues arose. In this situation, there is a tendency to use the term "isolationist" to describe anybody who does not subscribe to any and every proposal made in the name of international cooperation. In many of the arguments that arise, Russia is on one side, we on the other. American sources of left-wing and pro-Russian thought seem to assume that anyone who opposes a Russian position is an "isolationist."

Pioneer In World Cooperation

On the whole subject, our political vocabulary needs to be brought up to date; or, as respects this part of it, forgotten. Ex-Governor Stassen was a pioneer in international cooperation, and is now entitled to credit for vision; but he is as sturdy as Senator Vandenberg and Secretary of State Byrnes in advocating the American viewpoint on principles and details or organization. If Senator Vandenberg were a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, and if he should get it, he would not be handicapped by his non-intervention position of five and six years ago. Neither would Senator Taft.

At this moment, American political thought emphasizes mainly domestic conditions. Two examples are enough to illustrate. What commands Mr. Stassen is his comparative youth and his obvious energy, together with a record as Governor of Minnesota which suggests that he would be a strong and sound administrator. Senator Taft figures in the public mind largely as an outstanding leader against domestic policies of the Truman administration, and as the proponent of alternative domestic policies intelligently and constructively thought out.

Our Loves

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

It is a fine and stimulating thing to have a multitude of loves. Books, flowers, friends, rivers, forests, winding roads, antiques, and any number of other loves—the more the better.

Sir Walter Scott asked that the poems of Crabbe be read to him while he was dying. Perhaps it was the humanness of Crabbe that appealed to Scott. Crabbe was born in the midst of simple surroundings, and had the eye to see and the heart to feel. He saw such things as:

"Stakes and sea-weed withering in the mud."

He understood the poor because he came from the poor. And, like Gissing, his loves were born among the loves of simple folk.

The man, or woman, without a hoarding of loves, is an unfortunate human being. A friend of mine was about to paper his house, and he wanted each room to reflect something of the beauty of the intimate out-of-doors, and so he gathered a suitcase of Autumn leaves, and took them to New York to a wall-paper house and told them that he wanted designs and colors to match these of Nature's creation. We once stood under a pine tree and he pointed to the fallen cones upon the green grass, and exclaimed: "Aren't they beautiful!"

I handled a rare and precious book recently that was over four hundred years old. The very paper stimulated my love for this old volume. They took time to make good paper then. They had vision, who made it. They wanted the message upon it to live long.

All, or at least most of our loves, are inspired by sentiment. And is there anything quite so immortal, or important, as sentiment? I once heard Woodrow Wilson state, in an address, that the greatest things of this world were the things of sentiment. That statement of his is all that I remember of that address, though it was an important one, delivered when he was running for his second term as President of the United States.

It is important, not only to gather many loves, as we journey through life, but to keep watering them, keeping them fresh, and loaning them out, that others may be stimulated though their enjoyment and spiritual nourishment.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Leisure For Maturing."

Congressman May Should Testify

Representative Andrew Jackson May's oration in the House this week, had much in it about the Constitution, civil rights, horny-handed sons of toil and the flower of American manhood fighting and dying on foreign soil. But it left unanswered many questions that might properly be asked about how Congressman May, chairman of the House Military Affairs committee happened to get mixed up with a bunch of shady characters involved in $78,000,000 worth of war contracts, and Army-Navy "E" awards based on political pull. It left unexplained the mystery of the Cumberland Lumber Company, to which $48,000 allegedly was paid for lumber that was not delivered.

Congressman May should appear voluntarily before the Meade committee investigating war profits, submit himself to questions and give testimony under oath. And if he doesn't go voluntarily, he should be compelled to go, by joint resolution of Congress. Mr. May talked feelingly of the "rights of the humblest citizen." But any "humble citizen" would have been hauled before the committee and subjected to severe cross-examination long since, and, had he refused to testify, would have been jailed.

It is obvious that the story of the Garsson munitions enterprises is just beginning to be told. What a villainous plot unfolds, of the attempted bribe of one senator, of the effort to bribe a committee investigator by offering him a job to run the campaign of another senator, of a $16,000 food and liquor party charged to the taxpayers, of company checks being cashed by a notorious gambler!

And what a cast of characters involved in the melodrama—former associates of Gangster Dutch Schultz, ex-convicts and confidence men, banded together in the cause of supplying the Arsenal of Democracy, for profit.

In the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills scandal that rocked the nation 20-odd years ago the most sensational disclosure revolved around "the little black bag," containing $100,000. That was chicken feed. Most of the principals in that melodrama of the Harding-Coolidge decade ended up in court, and some of them in jail. If some of those who have been publicized in the current scandal wind up in criminal court behind the bars, they will not feel away from home. But if anyone connected with this case is treated tenderly, what shall we say of the standard of public morals in the year 1946?

The post-war world must be a bitter disappointment to the New York Giants' fans whose favorite club is hanging around the National league cellar.

Price Control As Viewed By Economist

Some virtue is seen by Charles O. Hardy, vice-president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City in continuing "selective price control" in cases where acute shortages still exist, but has little good to say about price control as an institution. Dr. Hardy was for some years a member of the staff of the Brookings Institution, where he was author or co-author of numerous important studies dealing with the functioning of the American economy.

In a recent article by him, and published by the Federal Reserve Board, he stated that accidents of control distort the relative profitability of various lines, with the result that management tends to allocate production, not to the lines where there is the greatest unsatisfied demand, but to those where price ceilings are most favorable.

Ceilings not only do not hasten, but may delay, the restoration of normal supply conditions, he notes, and he considers them particularly futile when unaccompanied by a plan of rationing. In such circumstances, he points out, allocation has to be determined by "dealer favoritism, the formation of queues or the tossing of a coin." Or, he might add, in the jungle of the black market, where available supplies are syphoned off by those in a position to outbid the average consumer.

Dr. Hardy is not unaware of the danger of fiscal inflation, though he apparently is less alarmed about it than some other economists. Decontrol of prices where there is a redundancy of money, he declares, accelerates spending, which in turn accelerates production and, "likely as not, prices." Expansion continues until prices and the volume of trade reach a level where the money supply is no longer excessive. Unless in the interim "a speculative boom has been most generated the price trend will level off." This type of inflation has been most typical of the American economy in recent years, Dr. Hardy observes, accounting for the phenomenon of 1915-16, the recovery after 1921 and the upturn of 1933-35.

Dr. Hardy finds the wage situation the most serious inflation threat and is of the opinion that if the government continues its policy of constantly supporting demands for higher wages it will step up "the prospective rate of inflation to an extent that cannot be predicted. He sees the difficulty arising less from a deficient supply of goods and an oversupply of money than from the fact of full employment of labor. Collective bargaining by strong unions enjoying a favored position is incompatible with price stability and full employment, he declares. And he adds: "We can have any two of these, but not all three. So long as union power is not dampened down by unemployment there is no apparent power in the state strong enough to check a powerful upward sweep of wages and prices."

It costs 44 per cent more to build a house today than in 1940.

Government Sale Of Surplus Property

An emphasis on speed is beginning to appear in the activities of the War Assets Administration. In May the sale of surplus properties totaled $233,000,000 and if objectives of the WAA are met, monthly sales at original cost values soon will be boosted to $1,500,000,000, which would bring to the treasury probably $400,000,000 at surplus prices. This speedup is being accomplished through more "site sales," whereby purchases may be made where the goods are located.

Although there has been a rather greater demand for the government to reduce its towering stockpiles of supplies as quickly as possible, there is an inherent obligation on the part of the WAA to conduct these sales in a manner which will cause the least disruption of normal commercial activities. Release of some supplies, such as building materials, may serve as a bottleneck breaker in a housing situation which has made this land of plenty in reality a land of untenable, unnecessary and scandalous scarcity.

Other commercial fields, however, do not look upon this release of huge surpluses with fond expectation. The drug industry for one, could suffer considerably by hasty and unwise freeing of government stores of medicines, although to date most of these drugs have gone into channels — relief projects abroad, new foreign markets, etc.— that have not greatly affected the manufacturers.

Up to the end of May property originally costing the government—which is to say the taxpayers—$17,000,000,000 had been declared surplus and at that time approximately 20 per cent of it had been sold. In the disposal of the remainder of the goods, it is perhaps inevitable that private interests will suffer in some instances. But it is the duty of the government to see that such dislocations are held to a minimum.

The government has no place in regular commercial markets.

Certain South American natives, we read, would cover their bodies in wet weather with liquid rubber which then dried. Zadok Dumkopf wonders if this isn't the origin of the girdle.

Birds Of The Sea May Lose Their Home

Ornithologists in England protested the royal navy's announced intention of blowing up the German island fortress of Helgoland. Migratory birds, they say, will suffer. A senior naval officer replied with this statement, "I can only assure them that when we have finished it will be the most wonderful bird sanctuary—nothing but a pile of rocks."

Helgoland was a German fleet and submarine lair for 50 years. According to the treaty of Versailles, the kaiser's naval base there was to be destroyed, and the Germans submitted a solemn report to the Allied authorities soon afterward that the demilitarization had duly taken place.

Somewhere in the years between the two world wars, those fortifications reappeared and no one seemed to know how nor care much. But the world soon identified the migratory birds that issued forth from the island in Hitler's war as submarines and raiding planes and ships—dark buzzards of prey.

Now this refuge for the scavengers of the sea is to be destroyed. On the rocks that jut out of the cold waters of the North Sea, marking where Helgoland once existed, birds of peace will alight and take rest. They will be able to hatch their young from nests unfouled by a German war brood.

A new flyswatter perfumes the air as it is swung about. So far, no fly has commented on the improvement.

Should Have Known What To Expect

Walter Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, was the director of the union's General Motor's strike, the first big strike in a major industry after the war ended.

The strike succeeded in that workers in the automobile industry won pay raises of approximately 18½ cents an hour and set the pattern for a wave of other strikes in other major industries in which settlement was on a similar basis.

The General Motors strike—and the others like it—failed in that wages cannot go up without price increases to pay them. Wages went up for union workers all along the line. Prices went up all along the line, too. The advantage to anybody is hard to discover.

Now Reuther admits it. Rising prices, he says, have already cost his union most of what it gained in the four-month General Motors strike—to say nothing of what it lost in the work stoppage period itself.

Reuther ought to know. He started it. He ought to have known before he started it. Without the interruptions to full production and without the inflation which now burdens everyone, the nation would have been better off.

Biggest surprise of the OPA fight was when the President took on the Senator from Ohio and wound up in an old-fashioned Tafty pull.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Congressman May Wanted $3,000 Telephone Conversations Disclose; Nazi Diplomat Tells How U. S. Congressmen Were Subsidized; Previous Exposes Substantiated.

By DREW PEARSON

Washington, July 10—Those who sat on the inside of the Erie Basin Metals Products, office during the heyday of its lush war orders racket say that some amazing telephone conservations took place.

Usually the name of the company's Congressional godfather, Representative May of Kentucky, was not mentioned over the phone—though his name was frequently mentioned in private talks around the office. Instead May's code name "Yiechel" was used on the telephone. Or at other times he was referred to as "our friend."

Here is how May's name slipped into one very incriminating telephone conversation. Joseph Freeman of the Washington office was phoning the main production office in Batavia, Ill., and after talking to Henry Garsson regarding some technical matters, Freeman asked to be switched to the accounting department.

"What about that piece of paper?" he asked.

"What do you mean?" the chief accountant replied.

Freeman hesitated a minute, then said:

"You know . . . that thousand dollars for Yiechel."

"Oh, that went in the mail yesterday," was the reply.

—o—

On another occasion, Congressman May himself called the Washington office of Erie Basin. Usually he was most discreet in talking on the phone, but this time Erie Basin employees surmised he was talking from a pay station, for, after talking about various matters, he abruptly said:

"Say, what about that three thousand dollars?"

Mr. Freeman replied that it would be along in a couple of days.

On another occasion, Congressman May phoned to ask for Freeman and was told by Louis Sarelas, then in charge of the Washington office:

"Freeman's up in New York making us a lot of money."

May became very indignant at this. "I beg your pardon," he said, and hung up.

When May was next in the office personally, he apologized to Sarelas for having been high-hat with him over the telephone. He explained that Sarelas should be careful never to talk the way he did over the phone again.

—o—

U. S. Army and Justice Department investigators in Germany have had some confidential and highly significant talks with Hitler's former diplomats in Washington. Their amazing testimony should be of interest to every American as an indication how foreign propaganda can poison people's minds. The testimony also happens to be of especial interest to this column.

On Sept. 13, 1940, this column published certain facts in the strange airplane death of Senator Ernest Lundeen of Minnesota; among other things, that Senator Lundeen had delivered speeches on the floor of the Senate written for him by a paid Nazi agent, George Sylvester Viereck; and that, at the time of his death, Lundeen was under investigation by the Justice Department.

These facts were immediately denied by the then Attorney General Robert Jackson, and the column was denounced on the floor of the Senate by Bennett C. Clark of Missouri and Burton K. Wheeler of Montana. No U. S. Senator, they said, would think of besmirching the fair name of the U. S. Senate by delivering on its floor a speech written by a foreign agent.

Mrs. Lundeen also threatened suit, and the Bloomington, Ill., Pantegraph, canceling the column, criticized it editorially as follows:

"On the basis of mere popularity, if they were the sole standard by which we publish a newspaper, Merry - Go - Round would be in its usual place today. However, it will not return. . . . There are only 96 Senators. To say that one of them was being shadowed by Federal agents on a suspicion of treason was serious enough. . . . But the Lundeen item was written without a shred of published newspaper evidence in its support. This was a violation of newspaper ethics as practiced by this newspaper. . . . That is why there will be no more Merry-Go-Round in the paper."

—o—

Despite this, the Merry-Go-Round continued to published other exposes of Nazi propaganda: How Representative Hamilton Fish (N. Y.) rented his New York home to the Nazi consulate at a high figure and how he was being used by Nazi agents; how Nazi agent Viereck formed Flanders Hall of Scotch Plains, N. J., as a propaganda blind; how the Hauck family, officially the publishers of Flanders Hall, put out such anti-British books as "The 100 Families That Rule the Empire," "The Hapless Boers," "Democracy on the Nile," "Lord Lothian vs. Lord Lothian"; how these books were promoted by Father Coughlin and Elizabeth Dilling; and how Viereck wrote a book for Congressman Stephen Day of Illinois, "We Must Save the Republic," published by Flanders Hall.

This column also reported that Viereck, an American citizen, received $1,000 a month from the German Library of Information, and that the cover of these propaganda books, paid for by Germany, bore the appeal: "Dear fellow American: We ask the support of all those who believe with us in America first and America only."

—o—

In Germany, the other day, Dr. Heribert von Strempel, former first secretary of the German Embassy in Washington, finally confirmed in complete detail these reports published six months earlier, Capt. Sam Harris of the U. S. Army interrogated him.

After bringing out the fact that Viereck was employed as the chief Nazi propagandist for Germany in the U.S.A., Captain Harris asked: I'd now like to return to the role which Viereck played in this studied program, which the Nazi Government had worked out to keep the United States out of the war. You mentioned yesterday that Viereck was appointed public relations counselor of the German Library of Information.

Von Strempel: Yes.

Captain Harris: Did he also have any connection with the Flanders Hall enterprise which you mentioned yesterday?

A. Yes.

Q. Please explain to us the precise details of that connection.

A. Flanders Hall was run by two brothers named Hauck, under Viereck's direction.

Q. Exactly what did Flanders Hall do?

A. The manuscripts of certain books came from the Foreign Office in Berlin in the diplomatic pouch or otherwise, and then went to the German Library of Information. Viereck selected from those manuscripts those which he thought might criticize and unmask British propaganda and egotistic British foreign policy, and which could easily be sold in the United States.

Q. Then what happened?

A. Viereck would publish these books at Flanders Hall. If he thought a financial risk was involved, he would contact me, and say that the costs would amount to $5,000 or sometimes even to $10,000.

Q. What did you do?

A. I drafted a report for the Chief of Mission, which was cabled to Berlin and, after having received approval, Viereck would receive the money. He always received lump sums of 5 to 10 thousand dollars.

Q. Do you recall the names of the books that you and the Foreign Office approved, and whose publication by Flanders Hall you directly financed?

—o—

A. I remember "Lothian versus Lothian," "English Policy in India," "English Policy in Ireland," "English Policy in Palestine," "Britain's 100 Families," by the German author, G. Wirsing. The manuscripts of these books had come originally from Berlin, and were then published by Viereck after I had advanced funds for him.

Q. Did the publication of each of these books entail a loss?

A. I don't know. I don't believe so. Books about Ireland sold easily. 'Lothian versus Lothian" was a big success. The book on India sold well. Some didn't sell so well.

Q. If no loss was sustained in the publication of any book, did Viereck return the money you had given him?

A. No. He kept it.

Q. Did he also keep all profits on books he distributed through Flanders Hall?

A. Yes.

Q. How much did you give to Viereck to carry out his propaganda activities?

A. Between 70 and 120,000 dollars during the period 1939 to 1941.

Q. Did the manuscripts of all books published by Flanders Hall originate in Germany?

A. No. I believe that Flanders Hall also published one or two books by Congressman Stephen Day about British propaganda.

Q. Did Viereck help write any of these books?

A. I don't know. He may have helped Congressman Day. I seem to remember Viereck saying he had written down some highlights for Congressman Day.

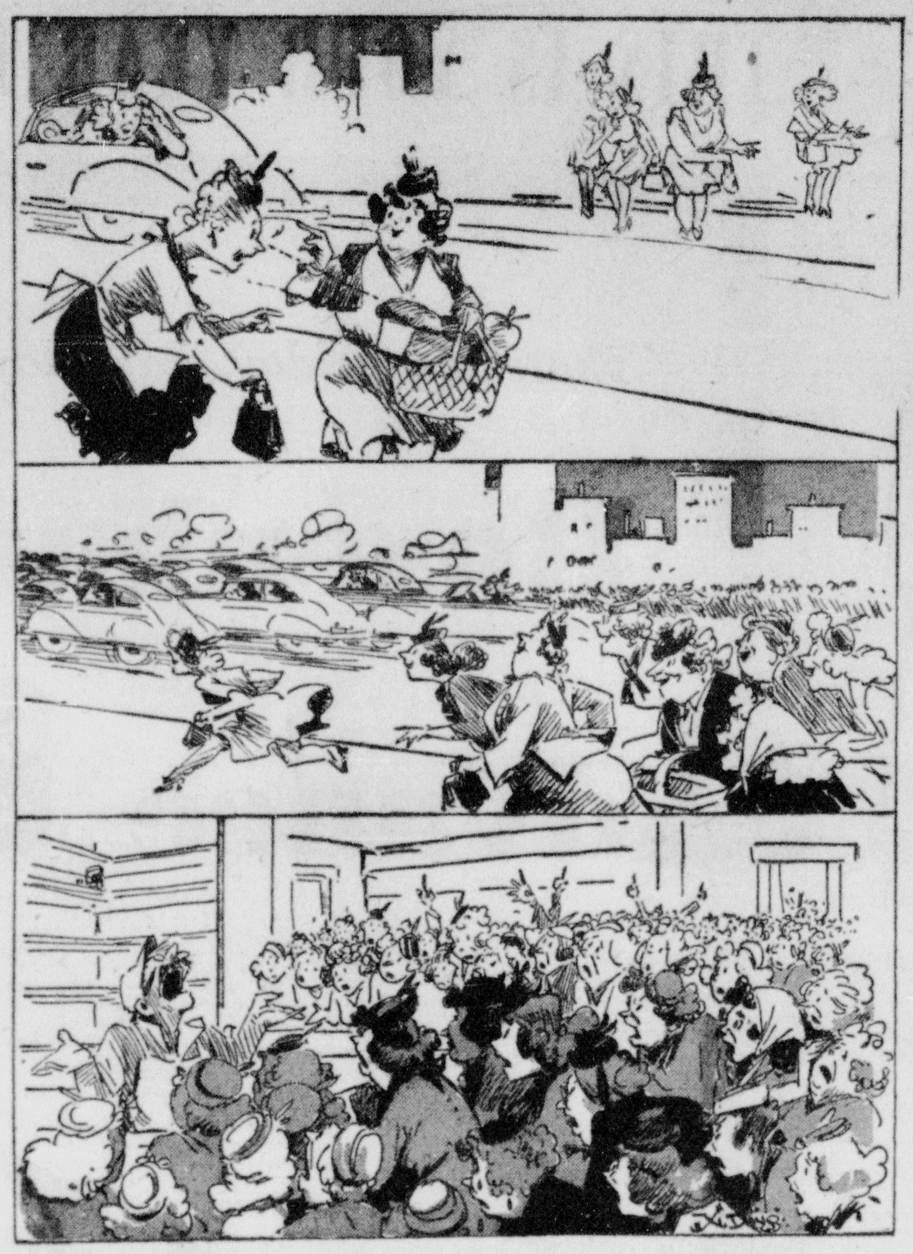

Q. Did Viereck ever mention the name of Senator Lundeen to you?

A. Yes.

Note—Another column continuing the revelations of the Nazi propaganda machine in the U.S.A. will follow soon.

WANTED--A NEW MIRACLE OF THE LOAVES AND FISHES

President Truman Being Proved Wrong In His Tactics Over OPA

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 10—Very little has been accomplished since President Truman vetoed the price control bill—very little to change the situation that existed before.

When the Senate voted this week to retain the Wherry amendment whereby meat, livestock and poultry are exempted from price controls, the members said all over again what they had said before. Apparently the organized campaign by governmnt agencies and labor unions to get Congress to dispose of the Wherry amendment has not succeeded. The senators have been watching the rapid flow of livestock into markets at reasonable prices in the last few days without any governmnt controls. Predictions of dire catastrophe have not materialized.

Truman Being Proved Wrong

What is more important, however, is that the President is being proved wrong in his tactics. He is not likely to veto another bill, and it looks now as if the measure which will be presented to him will contain some of the objectionable features to which he referred in his veto message. What was the good of a veto then?

It is a source of much wonder hereabouts that the president, who was a member of the United States Senate, misconstrued the majority will of that body and endeavored by means of a veto to force a change, especially on matters which are so closely related to the home constituencies and the votes in the regions affected.

Thus, senators from livestock-raising states are not likely to vote any differently now than they did two months ago. The same pressure to get rid of black markets and let prices be fixed as a result of supply and demand exists now—in fact, it is perhaps even more intense today than before the veto because the country has had an actual experience of markets without government controls or subsidies.

When the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Majority Leader of the Senate both tell a president that the bill before him is the best that can be obtained and when both these advisers are leaders of a president's own party, there must be strong reasons to disregard and even discard their advice.

In Especially Weak Position

Mr. Truman is in an especially weak position when he asks Congress to write another bill, because he is asking a tired leadership to seek the passage of a bill which that leadership has virtually no hope of passing. Nothing is more discouraging to congressional leaders than to attempt to oblige a president who doesn't want to accept advice on a situation on Capitol Hill with which they are more familiar than he is.

Most of the debate on the price control bill thus far has been in the Senate, but when the reconstructed measure gets through the upper House it will again have to be considered by the lower House. While there is some prospect that the legislation may be completed before the end of this week and considered by the House next week, the chances are that the attitude of the White House toward the new measure will be known by the time the Senate completes action.

Period Of Uncertainty Injurious

Meanwhile, many producers have been holding off in the setting of prices until they could find out what the Congress would do. The period of uncertainty is injurious to the economic life of the country and it has some international repercussions as well. Hence the sooner Congress acts and the president makes known his views, the better the opportunity for business to settle down to production.

Were it not for the veto of the OPA bill, it is believed that the first of July would have ushered in a period of rapidly increasing production. Settlement of some of the major strikes had cleared the air somewhat and industry was ready to go ahead when the OPA was knocked out by the President's failure to sign the measure which Congress had submitted to him.

May Accept Advice

Mr. Truman's action was a surprise to the nation and to Congress and it is not likely that the president will again go against the advice of his leaders. For to do so would be to subject the country once more to economic disturbances which can be avoided.

When the new bill is passed—and it is now said the president will sign almost anything he receives from Congress—the plan is for both Houses to adjourn. This in itself tends to remove many uncertainties which often cause business men to hesitate. Once Congress completes pending legislation or abandons attempts to pass certain current measures, the country can have a breathing spell.

"IT SAYS HERE" By Bob Hope

Mobile, Alabama—We're really in the deep South now, in fact, Mobile is so far South the natives say, "You-all-all." We took off this morning from Richmond and landed at Birmingham for our matinee. At the Birmingham Airport I ran into "Happy" Chandler, the singing baseball czar and his daughter Mimi, who were just leaving after coming down to look over a high school all-star ball game. Happy thinks and talks about nothing but baseball these days. As I walked up to him I could hear him muttering to Mimi about "getting rid of this foul ball." After our matinee we took off about six for the hour and a half hop to Mobile and spent about twenty minutes of it flying thru the middle of a thunderstorm. This caused us to lose a little time as the pilot had to turn around twice and go back for my stomach.

First it got pitch dark and the girls started to scream. Then the stewardess switched on the lights and made me get back in my own seat. Pretty soon lightning started to flash around us and an accident occurred. Eddie Rio and I both sprained our knee caps trying to sit on each other's laps at the same time . . . But we landed okay and were greeted by my old friend Colenel Buck Rawlins of Brookley Field. We did our evening omelette there at the field house and it was really hot. The people wouldn't stop applauding. I said, "So you like the show?" And one guy yelled back, "No, this is the only way we can keep a breeze going." It is really humid here in Mobile. It's different from California. You perspire so much here you have to wear your raincoat on the inside.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, July 10 (CP) — Congress and the United Nations now are considering an important matter wholly unrelated to war.

They are pondering whether to recommend that the world adopt a perpetual calendar.

A serious young student named William Edwards first thought of the perpetual calendar when a student in the Quincy, Mass., high school. He considered the present calendar confusing. The Caesars, he told his teacher, have done us wrong!

Now a lieutenant commander, stationed at the Ford island air base on Oahu, Edwards is still convinced he has done a better job than did the old Romans.

Edwards thought up a perpetual calendar. His calendar starts each week on Monday, agreeing with common business practice, and permits Saturday and Sunday to become the week-end in fact as well as in name.

His calendar would have Easter come on April 14 of every year, removing some small confusion. The Monday following Easter would become a legal holiday.

Another novelty: New Year's Day has no date. It is simply an extra day to be known by that name.

The old adage would not apply. Now it would be: "Thirty days hath January, February, April, May, July, August, October and November."

The year proper would start the following day, Monday, and would have 364 days, with 52 weeks, so divided that the calendar remains the same, year after year.

Every fourth year there would be an extra "year day," or Leap Year Day to be observed between June 31 and July 1. This would mark the half-way point in the year, and be a legal holiday.

Edwards claims these advantages for his calendar:

1—Setting aside of New Year's Day and Leap Year Day as separate days allows division of the remaining 364 days into exactly 52 full weeks.

2—Monday is made the first day of the week in agreement with common business practice and Saturday and Sunday become the week-end on the calendar as well as in fact.

3—The last business day of each quarter, the 90th day, falls on a Saturday, which is convenient for completing quarterly tax records, government reports, bookkeeping and stock-taking. However, another day, the 91st, still remains as the year has equal quarters of 91 days each.

4—There is no so-called "unlucky Friday-the-thirteenth," or "Black Friday" in the entire year to worry the superstitious or deter business deals or signing of contracts.

5—The first, 15th and 30th, common payroll, bill-paying and accounting days, all fall on week-days.

6—The day of the week for any date in the year may be figured easily by remembering "30, 30, 31," the number of days in the three months of each quarter, and "Monday, Wednesday, Friday," the weekdays on which the months of each quarter begin.

7—Easter Sunday on April 14 is close to the original historic date and with a fixed Easter there would be six three-day holidays every year since a "President's Day" is proposed for Monday, February 13, in addition to an "Easter Day" on the Monday following Easter Sunday. In Leap Year, of course, there would be seven three-day holidays.

8—Anniversaries and holidays would always fall on the same day of the week.

9—There would be 26 weekdays or working days in every month.

What came to Edwards as a challenge from his teacher has become an international issue. It has received wide endorsement.

Stassen Remains Presidential Possibility

By MARK SULLIVAN

The Republican primary election in Minnesota was one of those events in which news is made by what did not happen. One candidate for the Senatorial nomination was backed by ex-Governor Harold E. Stassen. It was said that if Mr. Stassen's candidate should be defeated, the effect on Mr. Stassen's own political fortunes, as a possibility for the Republican Presidential nomination in 1948, would be serious. It was recalled that Mr. Stassen, a few weeks ago, had backed another candidate for a Republican Senatorial nomination, in a nearby state, Nebraska, and his candidate was beaten. It was said that if this experience should be followed by a similar one in his own state, Mr. Stassen would be out of the Republican presidential picture.

So he would, very probably. It was not necessary to take the Nebraska incident into account, the test in Minnesota alone was enough. A political leader who does not command his party in his own state is rarely nominated for the presidency.

Remains GOP Possibility

But that did not happen to Mr. Stassen in Minnesota. On the contrary his candidate won, heavily. By that, Mr. Stassen remains a possibility for the Republican presidential nomination, a vigorous one

In the Minnesota contest, the candidate Mr. Stassen opposed, present and longtime senator Shipstead, had been, in his Senate career for some years, an isolationist. Mr. Stassen has been the opposite of that. In the sense of his record since this arose as an issue, Mr. Stassen has stood in front as an advocate of international cooperation. He was for a greater degree of international cooperation than was proposed by the late Wendell Willkie, who was a pioneer in this policy. Mr. Stassen advocated a broader and stronger world organization than was actually set up as the United Nations at San Francisco last year.

Isolation Had Material Weight

To cite this is not to show how much or how little so-called isolation may have been an issue in the Minnesota primary. Possibly, because of the extreme record of the defeated Senator Shipstead, the issue may have had material weight.

But as respects the country as a whole, the international issue needs to be brought up to date, in the light of the evolution through which the country has passed. Five and six years ago "isolationist" was used to describe persons who held that the United States should avoid involvment in the war. One who held that position was Republican Senator Vandenberg of Michigan. Today Senator Vandenberg is one of the half dozen most ernest and useful individuals engaged in bringing about international cooperation. Most of America has passed through the same evolution. Today America is committed to international cooperation, and to the United Nations.

In setting up the machinery of cooperation, issues arose. In this situation, there is a tendency to use the erm "isolationist" to describe anybody who does not subscribe to any and every proposal made in the name of international cooperation. In many of the arguments that arise, Russia is on one side, we on the other. American sources of leftwing and pro-Russian thought seem to assume that anyone who opposes a Russian position is an "isolationist."

Pioneer In World Cooperation

On the whole subject, our political vocabulary needs to be brought up to date; or, as respects this part of it, forgotten. Ex-Governor Stassen was a pioneer in international cooperation, and is now entitled to credit for vision; but he is as sturdy as Senator Vandenberg and Secretary of State Byrnes in advocating the American viewpoint on principles and details or organization. If Senator Vandenberg were a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, and if he should get it, he would not be handicapped by his non-intervention position of five and six years ago. Neither would Senator Taft.

At this moment, American political thought emphasizes mainly domestic conditions. Two examples are enough to illustrate. What commands Mr. Stassen is his comparative youth and his obvious energy, together with a record as Governor of Minnesota which suggests that he would be a strong and sound administrator. Senator Taft figures in the public mind largely as an outstanding leader against domestic policies of the Truman administration, and as the proponent of alternative domestic policies intelligently and constructively thought out.

Our Loves

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

It is a fine and stimulating thing to have a multitude of loves. Books, flowers, friends, rivers, forests, winding roads, antiques, and any number of other loves—the more the better.

Sir Walter Scott asked that the poems of Crabbe be read to him while he was dying. Perhaps it was the humanness of Crabbe that appealed to Scott. Crabbe was born in the midst of simple surroundings, and had the eye to see and the heart to feel. He saw such things as:

"Stakes and sea-weed withering in the mud."

He understood the poor because he came from the poor. And, like Gissing, his loves were born among the loves of simple folk.

The man, or woman, without a hoarding of loves, is an unfortunate human being. A friend of mine was about to paper his house, and he wanted each room to reflect something of the beauty of the intimate out-of-doors, and so he gathered a suitcase of Autumn leaves, and took them to New York to a wall-paper house and told them that he wanted designs and colors to match these of Nature's creation. We once stood under a pine tree and he pointed to the fallen cones upon the green grass, and exclaimed: "Aren't they beautiful!"

I handled a rare and precious book recently that was over four hundred years old. The very paper stimulated my love for this old volume. They took time to make good paper then. They had vision, who made it. They wanted the message upon it to live long.

All, or at least most of our loves, are inspired by sentiment. And is there anything quite so immortal, or important, as sentiment? I once heard Woodrow Wilson state, in an address, that the greatest things of this world were the things of sentiment. That statement of his is all that I remember of that address, though it was an important one, delivered when he was running for his second term as President of the United States.

It is important, not only to gather many loves, as we journey through life, but to keep watering them, keeping them fresh, and loaning them out, that others may be stimulated though their enjoyment and spiritual nourishment.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Leisure For Maturing."

WHY?

Getting along in years? Find yourself watchin r gray hairs, worrying over wrinkles?

Silly! Wrinkles and gray hairs are no test of age nor proof of youth, nor is the calendar. You may wear the bloom of 16 and be as blithe as Vera Vague at her giggliest —yet be as stodgy with age as a Neanderthal shin bone. For youth isn't a matter of skin, hair, birthdays or shapes.

YOU'RE AS OLD — AND AS YOUNG — AS YOUR CURIOSITY.

But I mean a very special kind of curiosity. Not the impulse that makes you wonder if Mrs. A. dyes her hair or how Mr. B. raised the cash for that new car he's sporting. Such impertinent gestures are not real curiosity. They are mere nose poking, unworthy of anyone with an intelligence above that of a pet rat.

Curiosity reaches beyond such trifles. It goes to the roots of existence. It is like a voice crying in the wilderness we call life — crying, "Why? Why? Why?"

Curiosity is not satisfied with personal trifles or viewpoints. It demands far wider horizons— it wonders about the great things which can never be answered. It wonders about love and hate . . . about life and death . . . about what makes life a dramatic pageant for one man and a drab succession of dreary chores for the next.

It wonders about suffering — why should it be? Can it be prevented? Are we the better for pain? It wonders about brotherhood . . . is there in all this cruelty and confusion some one bond that might bring us all together?

It wonders about success. What is its formula? Why does one man swoop to the heights with effortless ease and the next man flop in spite of all his struggles?

There are no limits to true curiosity — no imprisoning walls of time or space. The truly curious human does not require special objects to excite him or amuse him. Everything excites him, everything makes him curious. You may die eventually. That seems to be part of our natural human destiny, though I personally believe we only cast off one body for another. But you can never grow old while you are curious.

But can everyone attain this far flung, godlike curiosity? Suppose one is poor . . . friendless . . . broken by grief or disaster . . . can one still maintain this magnificent impersonality? One can try. There are circumstances which overwhelm us all temporarily. But if this desire to explore the wider life is sincere, if this hunger to reach beyond our immediate selves is real, curiosity will triumph over any situation, overcome any obstacle, allay any grief.

But suppose one isn't curious? Suppose such unanswerable riddles merely give one a headache? Then that's just your bad luck. If you prefer a safe, stupid, scheduled, smug existence, it's yours for the taking — and you can and will stew in your own juice.

But if you wish to ride the thunderbolt and explore the evening star — if you wish to rise above all personal mishaps and enjoy a freedom that nothing can dent, that too is yours for the taking. Stop worrying over wrinkles or fussing over neighborhood gossip. Stop being a thumb sucker.

Tax Collections Exceed $1,000,000 In June

Tax collections of $1,199,655.23 in June or about $94,000 more than was collected the same period last year, were reported yesterday by Lucian C. Radcliffe, county tax collector. The figure set a new record.

Total taxes collected during the entire fiscal year before the 1946 tax levy was signed amounted to $1,325,-169.69. Under the 1948 levy Radcliffe was charged with $1,095,000 and he already has exceeded that amount. In addition, about $300,000 is to be received by the collector from the state tax commission.

Taxpayers who paid their bills before July 1 received five per cent discount on their bills.

Another law which seems to have been repealed concerns the divine right of kings, who now are satisfied if given a decent head start when leaving the throne.

Celanese Staff Gets Pay Boost

Pay checks for staff members of the Amcelle Plant of Celanese Corporation of America will show a sizable increase when they are issued July 15, Arthur F. Happe, chief accountant at the local plant, said last night.

Happe refused to give any figures or percentage increases that will be given the staff personnel, but admitted that the increase was being made to maintain the existing differential between supervisory and hourly employes.

The raise, according to Happe will be retroactive to May 16, with the difference in pays being made up on the July 15 checks. The increase will affect about 1,500 employes, Happe said, but added that the sums couldn't be given since it has always been the policy of the plant to regard staff salaries as secret.

Happe said the raise will offset the 10 cent increase given hourly employes October 1, 1945 and the recent eight cent raise that was effective May 19. The staff raise will not interfere with the regular classification raises that staff members receive, Happe said.

Celanese Staff Gets Pay Boost

Pay checks for staff members of the Amcelle Plant of Celanese Corporation of America will show a sizable increase when they are issued July 15, Arthur F. Happe, chief accountant at the local plant, said last night.

Happe refused to give any figures or percentage increases that will be given the staff personnel, but admitted that the increase was being made to maintain the existing differential between supervisory and hourly employes.

The raise, according to Happe will be retroactive to May 16, with the difference in pays being made up on the July 15 checks. The increase will affect about 1,500 employes, Happe said, but added that the sums couldn't be given since it has always been the policy of the plant to regard staff salaries as secret.

Happe said the raise will offset the 10 cent increase given hourly employes October 1, 1945 and the recent eight cent raise that was effective May 19. The staff raise will not interfere with the regular classification raises that staff members receive, Happe said.

Wonder Drugs Have Newcomer In Streptomycin

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Just as the proof of the pudding is in the eating, so the final test of a new medicine is in the sick room.

Laboratory scientists are the discoverers, but killing germs in a test tube is a very different thing from routing them in the body. This is why the real job of exploration belongs to the doctors. It is they who must map out the limits of a new drug's usefulness; who must determine how much to give and how best to give it; establish safeguards and chart the whole course which leads to healing.

Newest Drug

One of these important explorations has recently been conducted at the Mayo Clinic by Doctors Wallace E. Herrell and Donald R. Nichols regarding that newcomer among the modern wonder drugs—streptomycin. Like penicillin, it seems to have great value in treating a number of different infections, especially those involving the kidney and bladder, the windpipe and lungs.

In addition, it has also been found useful in meningitis or inflammation of the membranes enclosing the brain and spinal cord.

The work reported by the two Mayo Clinic doctors in treating 45 patients with various ailments with streptomycin does much to give a more precise knowledge of its usefulness.

Daily doses ranged from 100,000 to 4,000,000 units, depending on the nature of the infection and the way the drug was administered. For the latter, several methods were used, injection into a muscle, under the skin or into a vein; by mouth and by spraying into the nose.

Results Obtained

Good results were obtained in 26 cases, doubtful results in 12, and the treatment failed in seven instances. No serious reactions occurred in any of the patients treated. Given over a long period of time, the drug sometimes produced a rash, but this disappeared when the treatment was stopped.

Eight patients had an infection of the blood stream. All recovered with the streptomycin treatment.

In two patients with infections due to the brucella germ which causes undulant fever, the streptomycin treatment was of no apparent benefit. In 10 out of 13 patients who had infections of the kidney and bladder, good results were obtained. The length of treatment varied from four to 17 days. It would appear that when the urine is kept alkaline, the streptomycin is more effective in its action.

In four out of five patients with an infection of the lungs, the streptomycin gave satisfactory results when it was breathed into the lungs. Large doses of streptomycin did not have any effect in four cases of syphilis.

In four cases of influenzal meningitis, a cure resulted with the streptomycin treatment. Three of the cases were due to the influenzal organism known as Type B. The exact variety of the organism in the fourth ease was not determined.

Thus, it would seem that streptomycin will prove to be another potent weapon in the hands of the physicians for overcoming a variety of infections. However, a great deal further work is necessary with this preparation to determine its exact value.

Beatrice Fairfax Reminds Woman "Love Is Blind"

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 25, and have been going with a man the same age for two months. I am madly in love.

Lately, he has broken several of our dates and refuses to give a reason. On one occasion, while at a dance, he became irritated because I was unable to dance on account of my fallen arches. On the same night he became peeved because of my bright nail polish and dark lipstick, but at the same time he enjoyed gazing at the girl in the next booth who looked no different than I.

Do you think I should try and please him by dancing regardless of my arches, and lighten my make-up to make him once again love and appreciate me?

DESPERATE

It sounds to me as though your boy friend were thinking up pretty lame excuses for finding fault with you. If he was entranced with you, he'd rather sit out dances with you than glide around the floor with the smoothest dancer in the world. Love is like that.

And by the same token, if he were equally "madly in love," you could wear green nail polish and bright blue lipstick, and he'd think you looked like an angel, and would never stop to try and figure out why. Love is blind, you know.

Of course, if you're really set on making a play for this luke-warm lover, get yourself some arch supports and tone down or match up your make-up and see if it makes him any more ardent. But my hunch is that you'd be smart to play him with a nonchalant line instead of trying to reel him in. Because it looks very much to me as though he were trying to wriggle off the hook, and you don't want to be made a sucker of by finding yourself frantically trying to land a catch that is swimming gaily away.

Should She Carry a Torch?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 18, just finished my last year of High School. I like a man just out of the service who is 23, but he doesn't like me. He thinks I am just a kid.

Do you think I should go around carrying a torch for him, or just forget him?

SUSAN B.

What do you think yourself, Susan? Don't you think torch-carrying is pretty silly business for a girl just out of school who's got the whole world ahead of her?

If you were, say, 48 instead of 18, and hopelessly and desperately in love and knew it was your last chance, then I might say: Sure, go ahead; get all the satisfaction you can out of pampering yourself by carrying a torch. Though I'm sure you'd get a lot more out of life by putting the whole thing out of your mind and interesting yourself in other things.

But since you're not 48, but just 18, I say: Be yourself, Susan! The world is full of nice boys, and there's a lot of fun waiting for you if you've got sense enough to take it. So for heaven's sake, start having it, and quit mooning over a man who isn't interested in you!

Court Is Asked To Name Trustee

A petition was filed in circuit court Tuesday by Harriett Elaine Gates and William Gates, Washington, asking that a substitute trustee be appointed to convey to them a property located at 503 Greene street which they believe they are entitled to receive under the will of their grandfather, Edward Gates, Sr., who died July 9, 1945.

The petitioners pointed out that the administration of the estate by Edward L. Gates, administrator c. t. a., has been completed, and that they have been advised by counsel that in order to secure a good title to the property it will be necessary for the court to take jurisdiction and appoint a substitute trustee to convey it to them. W. Carl Richards is attorney for the petitioners.

Mrs. Susie I. Clinedinst has filed suit against Dorsey Clinedinst and the Peoples bank asking that a trustee be appointed to sell a property located in Election District No. 20 and that the proceeds be used to pay off a mortgage with the balance to be distributed between her and Clinedinst on the basis of their respective interests.

Mrs. Clinedinst said that she and her husand were divorced this year, that she has been living in the dwelling and making payments on the mortgage. She said her ex-husband has been making no payments.

She added that without Clinedinst's help she believes she will be unable to make the payments and, in the event she does make the payments, will be unable to realize an amount in excess of her proportion paid on the mortgage unless the court intervenes. Estel C. Kelley is her attorney.

LOW COST CLOTHS NOT NECESSARY UNDER CPA NOW

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Confronted with a Congressional edict, the Civilian Production Administration tonight scrapped the only remaining price controls designed to insure output of inexpensive clothing.

The agency announced it will continue to set aside fabrics suitable for low and moderately priced garments, but it no longer will require manufacturers to sell clothing made from such materials at or below certain wholesale prices.

Although CPA did not explain in its official announcement why this control is being abandoned, officials told a reporter privately that the reason is uncertainty with respect to the Moore amendment to the recently renewed Second War Powers act.

That amendment, sponsored by Senator Moore (R-Okla.) prohibits any price fixing under the War Powers act, the law from which CPA derives its authority to allocate fabrics for clothing.

The purpose of that amendment, adopted before expiration of the Price Control act, was to block a possible move to authorize OPA to set ceilings under other emergency legislation.

Four Area Men Enlist In Army

Four area men enlisted in the army at the local recruiting station and left Tuesday for Baltimore for final physical examinations and induction, according to Capt. N. S. P. Stitt, officer in charge.

Thomas Brown Strachan, 37, of 1434 Ames Place, Washington, D. C., a native of Blaine, W. Va., enlisted in the army air forces as a corporal for three years. He was discharged October 4, 1945, after 40 months' service.

Samuel Wilbur Tasker, 18, Kitzmiller; Paul William Moorehead, 18, 431 Walnut street, Westernport, and Joseph Paul Arnold, 314 Walnut street, Westernport, each enlisted for 18 months unassigned.

Chrysler Union Asks Raise Or OPA

DETROIT, July 10 (AP)—The Chrysler department of the CIO United auto workers today served notice it would seek additional wage increases "if the Congress does not reenact OPA with prices of the June 30, 1946 level."

Delegates to the UAW's Chrysler conference, representing 60,000 Chrysler workers, declared that if OPA is not reestablished they will seek wage boosts equal to the increase in prices.

The 65 delegates declared that expiration of "OPA price controls already has wiped out the recent 18½ cent increase," obtained earlier this year.

Mayor Post Receives Letter From India

Prof. D. V. Gokhale in faraway India has heard of Cumberland, according to a letter which Mayor Thomas S. Post has received from him.

The small brown envelope, addressed to "Mayor, Town Hall, Cumberland," included a prayer written in Hindu for world peace, praise of American relations with Britain, and thanks for past generosities. The grateful professor identified himself as a member of the "U.S.A. Society" in Poona, India.

Mayor Post, somewhat puzzled as he deciphered the letter, written in a mixture of English and Indian, concluded that gifts of food and clothing sent overseas by Cumberland residents must have found their way to India.

SFA Won't Ship High Grade Coal Overseas Now

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—The Solid Fuels Administration announced today it would not permit overseas shipments of high grade coals "as long as there is need for them in the United States."

This is particularly true, the agency said in a policy statement, of coals suitable for by-product and metallurgical uses.

While export of high grade coals will not be permitted while a shortage exists here, solid fuels said substantial tonnages of low grade coals are available for overseas shipments.

The agency is obtaining data from mine operators who have coal available for export, and said it will keep foreign purchasing missions advised as to supplies.

Beatrice Fairfax Reminds Woman "Love Is Blind"

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 25, and have been going with a man the same age for two months. I am madly in love.

Lately, he has broken several of our dates and refuses to give a reason. On one occasion, while at a dance, he became irritated because I was unable to dance on account of my fallen arches. On the same night he became peeved because of my bright nail polish and dark lipstick, but at the same time he enjoyed gazing at the girl in the next booth who looked no different than I.

Do you think I should try and please him by dancing regardless of my arches, and lighten my make-up to make him once again love and appreciate me?

DESPERATE

It sounds to me as though your boy friend were thinking up pretty lame excuses for finding fault with you. If he was entranced with you, he'd rather sit out dances with you than glide around the floor with the smoothest dancer in the world. Love is like that.

And by the same token, if he were equally "madly in love," you could wear green nail polish and bright blue lipstick, and he'd think you looked like an angel, and would never stop to try and figure out why. Love is blind, you know.

Of course, if you're really set on making a play for this luke-warm lover, get yourself some arch supports and tone down or match up your make-up and see if it makes him any more ardent. But my hunch is that you'd be smart to play him with a nonchalant line instead of trying to reel him in. Because it looks very much to me as though he were trying te wriggle off the hook, and you don't want to be made a sucker of by finding yourself frantically trying to land a catch that is swimming gaily away.

Should She Carry a Torch?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 18, just finished my last year of High School. I like a man just out of the service who is 23, but he doesn't like me. He thinks I am just a kid.

Do you think I should go around carrying a torch for him, or just forget him?

SUSAN B.

What do you think yourself, Susan? Don't you think torch-carrying is pretty silly business for a girl just out of school who's got the whole world ahead of her?

If you were, say, 48 instead of 18, and hopelessly and desperately in love and knew it was your last chance, then I might say: Sure, go ahead; get all the satisfaction you can out of pampering yourself by carrying a torch. Though I'm sure you'd get a lot more out of life by putting the whole thing out of your mind and interesting yourself in other things.

But since you're not 48, but just 13, I say: Be yourself, Susan! The world is full of nice boys, and there's a lot of fun waiting for you if you've got sense enough to take it. So for heaven's sake, start having it, and quit mooning over a man who isn't interested in you!

Court Is Asked To Name Trustee

A petition was filed in circuit court Tuesday by Harriett Elaine Gates and William Gates, Washington, asking that a substitute trustee be appointed to convey to them a property located at 503 Greene street which they believe they are entitled to receive under the will of their grandfather, Edward Gates, Sr., who died July 9, 1945.

The petitioners pointed out that the administration of the estate by Edward L. Gates, administrator c. t. a., has been completed, and that they have been advised by counsel that in order to secure a good title to the property it will be necessary for the court to take jurisdiction and appoint a substitute trustee to convey it to them. W. Carl Richards is attorney for the petitioners.

Mrs. Susie I. Clinedinst has filed suit against Dorsey Clinedinst and the Peoples bank asking that a trustee be appointed to sell a property located in Election District No. 20 and that the proceeds be used to pay off a mortgage with the balance to be distributed between her and Clinedinst on the basis of their respective interests.

Mrs. Clinedinst said that she and her husand were divorced this year, that she has been living in the dwelling and making payments on the mortgage. She said her ex-husband has been making no payments.

She added that without Clinedinst's help she believes she will be unable to make the payments and, in the event she does make the payments, will be unable to realize an amount in excess of her proportion paid on the mortgage unless the court intervenes. Estel C. Kelley is her attorney.

LOW COST CLOTHS NOT NECESSARY UNDER CPA NOW

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Confronted with a Congressional edict, the Civilian Production Administration tonight scrapped the only remaining price controls designed to insure output of inexpensive clothing.

The agency announced it will continue to set aside fabrics suitable for low and moderately priced garments, but it no longer will require manufacturers to sell clothing made from such materials at or below certain wholesale prices.

Although CPA did not explain in its official announcement why this control is being abandoned, officials told a reporter privately that the reason is uncertainty with respect to the Moore amendment to the recently renewed Second War Powers act.

That amendment, sponsored by Senator Moore (R-Okla.) prohibits any price fixing under the War Powers act, the law from which CPA derives its authority to allocate fabrics for clothing.

The purpose of that amendment, adopted before expiration of the Price Control act, was to block a possible move to authorize OPA to set ceilings under other emergency legislation.

Four Area Men Enlist In Army

Four area men enlisted in the army at the local recruiting station and left Tuesday for Baltimore for final physical examinations and induction, according to Capt. N. S. P. Stitt, officer in charge.

Thomas Brown Strachan, 37, of 1434 Ames Place, Washington, D. C., a native of Blaine, W. Va., enlisted in the army air forces as a corporal for three years. He was discharged October 4, 1945, after 40 months' service.

Samuel Wilbur Tasker, 18, Kitzmiller; Paul William Moorehead, 18, 431 Walnut street, Westernport, and Joseph Paul Arnold, 314 Walnut street, Westernport, each enlisted for 18 months unassigned.

Chrysler Union Asks Raise Or OPA

DETROIT, July 10 (AP)—The Chrysler department of the CIO United auto workers today served notice it would seek additional wage increases "if the Congress does not reenact OPA with prices of the June 30, 1946 level."

Delegates to the UAW's Chrysler conference, representing 60,000 Chrysler workers, declared that if OPA is not reestablished they will seek wage boosts equal to the increase in prices.

The 65 delegates declared that expiration of "OPA price controls already has wiped out the recent 18½ cent increase," obtained earlier this year.

TEXAS WOMAN ASKS RED CROSS TO FIND HER BROTHER HERE

An effort is being made here to locate John P. Adams, or his wife Betty Garlitz Adams, who lived at 158 North Centre street for about seven or eight years.

Mrs. Louise C. Dean, home service secretary of the Red Cross here, yesterday received a letter from Mary K. Reinold, 1115 Glendora, avenue, Athens, Texas, asking the Red Cross to locate her brother, John P. Adams or his wife.

The letter gives the Center street address, but Mrs. Dean learned through postal authorities that Adams left there more than a month ago, and gave no forwarding address.

Mrs. Reinold explained in her letter that the man worked as a brakeman for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, but contact with the railroad revealed that he is no longer an employee. Her letter also states that his mother died last week, and because no address is available it has been impossible to notify him.

Mrs. Reinold expresses the fear in her letter that since Adams is apparently not working for the railroad any longer, and since he was in ill health the last time she heard from him, he may be in need of medical or financial assistance.

Mrs. Dean said yesterday she would appreciate any information which might lead to the location of

Topnotch Rifle Teams Will Vie In Frostburg

Ernest And Fraser Duplex Clubs Renew Duel Sunday

200 To Shoot In State Championship Tests; Opening Event Set For 8 A.M.; Officials Named

Riflemen from Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, Delaware and Ohio will compete in the open matches featuring the program of the Maryland State Rifle Championship Shoot to be held at the range of the Frostburg Rifle and Pistol Club, Sunday, July 14, commencing at 8 a. m., it was announced yesterday by Harry Morgan, president of the host organization.

Foremost among the visiting teams will be the Ernest Rifle Club, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and the Fraser-Duplex Club team, of Washington, Pa., which fought it out in the recent Western Maryland championship tournament on the Mountain City range. In that thrilling match the Ernest shooters were returned the victors by two points and they took with them the Cumberland Times and Alleganian Company trophy.

Harvey E. Henshaw, one of the most prominent gunsmiths in the east, will head the Ernest Club, and Elsie Courtwright, of Washington, Pa., will have charge of the Frazer-Duplex team.

200 Shooters To Compete

Morgan estimated that 200 men and women shooters will compete in the one-day program of five events which is sanctioned by the National Rifle Association. Maryland state championship events in the past were held at Camp Ritchie and Frostburg is elated over having landed the big shoot for its modern 40-target range located one mile southeast of Frostburg on Hoffman lane. The shoot is sponsored by the Maryland State Rifle and Pistol Association and N.R.A. rules and regulations will prevail.

The Frostburg event is labeled a Class "B" shoot like all state championship contests. Class "AA" or national shoots are held at Camp Perry, Ohio, regional shoots come under "A" classification and local shoots such as the recent Western Maryland championship contest is given a "C" rating.

Among the teams that will shoot it out in the events closed to Maryland shooters are the Maryland and Pointers clubs, of Baltimore, Frederick Rifle Club and Cumberland Rifle and Pistol Club.

Members of the Frostburg club will not shoot but will act as officials for the program.

Shoot Officials Named

Harry Morgan, executive officer; Henry Yates, chief range officer; assistants, D. H. Durst, LaVale, and Arthur F. Hoffa, Barton.

Howard Brode, Frostburg, chief target officer; assistants, Ernie Scarpelli and Nat Workman, Frostburg.

Target boys: Members of LaVale Junior Rifle Club, Frostburg 4-H Rifle Club and the Frostburg Boy Scouts.

James Affleck, of the NRA, will referee the shoot, which will be observed by representatives of the National Rifle Association, of Washington.

FRIDAY GAME
Mower's vs. Lover's Leap (Stitcher Field)

Paul Judy pitched Jerry's Confectionery into undisputed possession of first place in the Midget Baseball League by tossing a one-hitter against Don and Bud's Confectioners yesterday at Stitcher field. The score was 4-0.

Judy breezed the third strike past thirteen batsmen, issued three passes and the lone hit garnered off his slants was a single by Cunningham in the sixth inning. Jerry's mound ace fanned the side in the third and fourth frames in gaining a decision over Bob Price, who was nicked for seven hits and struck out ten.

Jerry's won the game in the third inning when J. Eckard, Cage and Goss singled to fill the bases and Charley Lattimer knocked in three runs with a timely double. Lattimer walked, stole second and scored on Bob Doman's single in the fifth. Doman obtained two of the winners' hits. Price fanned the side in the second and sixth stanzas. The box:

Tailenders Rack Up Four Runs In Sixth To Bag 4-2 Decision

Potomac Edison's last place club, which had won a single game in 15 starts, sprang a surprise yesterday by defeating the Cumberland Outdoor Club in a Rocking Chair Softball League game on East Side field by the score of 4-2.

On the short end of a 2-0 score, P. E. sewed up the game by scoring four runs in the sixth inning on a combination of two hits and three errors. "Buck" Grimes was the winning pitcher and Harry Raygor the loser.

"Bud" Minke and Wolford Anderson had two hits each for P. E. while Maphis connected for a double and single for the losers.

The defeat knocked Outdoor Club from third place and enabled the Loyal Order of Moose to move up one notch, two games in the rear of the runner-up Elks.

In games scheduled today Texcel will play P. E. at East Side, the Elks will meet the Moose at Campobello and the Legion will play K. of C. on the Rolling Mill diamond. Score:

Keegan's Jupers provided the big surprise in the City Softball League yesterday when they knocked off the fast-stepping East Side Club on the Rolling Mill diamond by the score of 4 to 2 behind the seven-hit pitching of Bob Ziler.

East Side had beaten the Jupers in three previous starts by scores of 5-3, 6-5 and 6-1 and yesterday's victory for Keegan's was a big upset in a game that was played in fifty minutes.

Eddie Martin To Resign

Excitement preceded the game when Manager Stan Goodrich and Eddie Martin, umpire-in-chief of the league, engaged in fisticuffs over what was described as a "personal matter." Martin announced last night that he is forwarding his resignation as umpire-in-chief to the league president. Players said that trouble between Goodrich and Martin has been brewing for some time and it came to a head prior to yesterday's game.

Keegan's outfit fathomed the slants of Beckman and Aman for eight hits. Ziler helped his own cause by swatting a homer and single, Ronald Palmer got three hits and "Red" Morrissey two. George, Brown and Valentine accounted for six of the losers' seven bingles.

The defeat dropped East Side from third to fifth place in the league standings, North End moved into third place and the Jupers fourth.

Lacy's Extend String

Lacy's Delicatets registered their fifth straight win of the second half race by turning back Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, 5 to 3, at Community Park. $30 Top Set For Title Go Between Louis-Mauriello

Match Is Scheduled For Yankee Stadium Sept. 18; New Yorker Has Won 12 In Row

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP) — The next victim to be led into the pit against bomber Joe Louis will be Tami Mauriello, a pudgy barkeep out of the Bronx who is a perfectly rational young man except that he wants to get into a fight with the heavyweight champion.

After telling practically everyone that the Billy Conn clambake of a couple of weeks back would be his only ring appearance this year, Bomber Joe listened to the soothing persuasions of Promoter Mike Jacobs and agreed today to put his title on the line for the 23rd time against thumping Tami on Sept. 18 in Yankee stadium.

Sets Top at $30

But the peacefulness of the Conn affair at $100 per seat taught Mike one thing—that you can lead gus fan and the missus to a box office, but you can't make them put up their cash. As a result, he's marking this one down to $30 tops—and $3 bottoms—and has scaled the big Bronx ballyard for a gate of something over a million dollars.

Tami, whose real name is Steve and who borrowed his older brother's tag because he was too young to get a beak-busting license of his own, signed for the fight on Monday, agreeing to take 15 percent as well as whatever bumps and bruises he may acquire in the course of the proceedings.

Louis To Get 40 Per Cent

Louis, meantime, held up his okay because of some hitch which was reported to have developed in his fistic family. But Promoter Mike kept after him so long and so often that the phone company was about to declare an extra dividend. And today Joe finally gave Mike the green light in a conversation from Detroit where he's catching up on his golf. He'll get his usual 40 per cent plus whatever exercise may be necessary to knock the roof in on Tami.

Joe will set up his training shop at his usual Pompton Lakes, N. J., base on Aug. 1. Tami still hasn't decided where he'll get ready for what's being cooked up for him. Louis will weigh about 208 to Tami's 194.

In the record books, Tami's age is 26, but he's actually three years younger. It seems that back in '39, when he first started in the bash-for-cash business, he was only 16, and the powers that be don't think a youngster that age can take a poke in the nose in the approved manner. As a result, he used his older brother's name and started up the thumping trail.

Won Last 12 Starts

An orthodox-style, stand-up swatter with a good straight left and a hard right, he's had 77 fights, lost only seven, and has flattened 51 opponents. The Mauriello cheering and chowder society boasts that Louis has only 49 knockouts to his credit, but the comparison, up to this writing, was not causing Joe to miss any niblick shots. Tami has won his last 12 starts in order, making the birdies sing for the other guy in 11 of them. The latest was Bruce Woodcock, the British Empire champ, who went to sleep in five rounds on May 17.

Retains Ring Title

GLASGOW, Scotland, July 10 (AP) —Jackie Paterson, 26-year-old Scot, retained his world flyweight title tonight, winning a 15-round decision over Joe Curran of Liverpool. Paterson weighed 112 pounds, Curran 109.

TAMI MAURIELLO, burley Bronx heavyweight, will be Joe Louis' next opponent. Mauriello has won his last twelve fights, eleven via the knockout route, including Bruce Woodcock, British Empire champion.

Carolyn A Takes Juvenile Stakes

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, N. Y., July 10. (AP)—The riding wizardry of America's premier jockey, Eddie Arcaro, proved a vital factor as B. F. Whitaker's Carolyn A. captured today's $20,000 added Demoiselle Stakes, the Empire City Cllub's richest offering for juvenile fillies.

The Newport, Ky., veteran risked possible injury and disqualification through his daring tactics and drove the homebred daughter of Questionnaire (one of the best racers and sires ever to represent the James Butler family which long has operated the Empire City Association) to a length conquest over W. H. Laboyteaux's Pipette. Another length away, A. B. Hancock's With Honor was third, two lengths before Mrs. H. C. Phipps's Keynote, the favorite.

C. V. Whitney's Bright Song was fifth and her rider Ruperto Donoso, claimed foul to no avail against the winner, saying his mount was bothered at the top of the stretch. Bright Song was carrying on in the enforced absence of her more illustrious stablemate, First Flight, which yesterday fell victim to coughing.

Carolyn A. paid $11.90, was timed in 1:12 3-5 for the six furlongs and took down a purse of $33,550 before 22,523 fans.

In her previous race, the bay "Bobby Soxer" captured a maiden affair for her first triumph in three starts. Prior to today, she had earned only $2,900.

Nelson Is Choice To Win Tourney At Kansas City

Players Report Byron Is "In The Groove" For $20,000 Event

By SKIPPER PATRICK

KANSAS CITY, July 10 (AP) — Only Byron Nelson, the mechanical golfing man, declined today to nominate Nelson as the man to beat for first money in Kansas City's $20,000 invitational tournament beginning tomorrow.

Several of the players predicted a free-for-all with Nelson, Bantam Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa., Sam Snead, Hot Springs, Va., and Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago, as the "big 4" in the four-day affair, but the majority of the contestants said they felt Nelson would win.

"The ole Toledo umbrella man is in the groove again," offered Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Sanford, Me., chief spokesman for the Nelson boom. "And when Nelson is in the groove there isn't anything you can do about it. He showed us at Columbus (Ohio) last week that he still has the stuff to win."

Nelson, who has won all of the big tournaments in the books, wasn't so sure that he could take this one.

"Hogan, Mangrum, Snead and half a dozen others are capable of winning," Nelson volunteered, "and the man that gets hot will win. I'm not driving myself as hard as I did a year ago, but I'm still trying just as hard to win."

Nelson's victory in the Columbus open was his first since the Houston, Tex., invitational in May. At that, the man who captured 19 of 31 tournaments in 1945 and had a gross earning of apppproximately $53,000, insisted there is nothing wrong with his game.

"I've won 5 of the 15 tournaments I have played in this year and I think that's pretty good in a strong field," Nelson said. "Some you are supposed to win and some you aren't. Some days you shoot your best and another fellow gets hot and burns up the course."

Maryland's Mile Tracks Must Use Receiving Barns

Order Goes Into Effect Oct. 1; Half Milers Come Later

BALTIMORE, July 10 (AP) — Major tracks in Maryland were ordered today by the racing commission to have receiving barns in use by Oct. 1 as an added protection against tampering with horses.

Laurel, Pimlico and Bowie, which conduct fall meetings, will be affected by the ruling.

Not affected were half-mile tracks operating this summer, but the commission said that modern receiving barns would be required at all tracks at a later date.

Receiving barns were used in Maryland this spring for the first time following a series of stimulation cases in the fall.

The commission requires that all horses be in the receiving barn two hours before post-time of the race in which they are entered.

It said experience showed that use of receiving barns reduces the possibility of outside tampering, prevents use of chains and electric devices to "pep up" horses, allows more time for positive identification of horses and gives veterinarians sufficient time to examine horses for soundness.

Sabin Is Winner Over Bill Tilden In Pro Net Meet

Big Bill Loses Five-Set Match; Bobby Riggs, Fred Perry Score

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., July 10—(AP)—Bill Tilden of Philadelphia bowed out of the national professional grass court championships today at the West Side Tennis Club, but before his match with Wayne Sabin, of Reno, Nev., was finished, Big Bill, as usual, had given the gallery a real show.

Sabin, seeded No. 6, finally won the match, 4-6, 7-9, 6-1, 8-1, 6-0, but it was mainly because of the wearing-down process exercised on the 53-year-old Tilden. Big Bill was in complete command of the first set.

The upper half of the quarter-final bracket was completed with Bobby Riggs of Los Angeles, ranked at the top, scoring over John March of New York, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3; John Faunce of Los Angeles, seventh seeded overcoming the resistance of Jack Jossi of Oakland, Calif., rated at No. 9, 6-4, 9-7, 6-1, and Fred Perry of Las Vegas, Nev., coming through with a 6-3, 6-3, 6-2 triumph over Frank Goeltz of Washington, D. C.

Keegan's Jupers provided the big surprise in the City Softball League yesterday when they knocked off the fast-stepping East Side Club on the Rolling Mill diamond by the score of 4 to 2 behind the seven-hit pitching of Bob Ziler.

East Side had beaten the Jupers in three previous starts by scores of 5-3, 6-5 and 6-1 and yesterday's victory for Keegan's was a big upset in a game that was played in fifty minutes.

Eddie Martin To Resign

Excitement preceded the game when Manager Stan Goodrich and Eddie Martin, umpire-in-chief of the league, engaged in fisticuffs over what was described as a "personal matter." Martin announced last night that he is forwarding his resignation as umpire-in-chief to the league president. Players said that trouble between Goodrich and Martin has been brewing for some time and it came to a head prior to yesterday's game.

Keegan's outfit fathomed the slants of Beckman and Aman for eight hits. Ziler helped his own cause by swatting a homer and single, Ronald Palmer got three hits and "Red" Morrissey two. George, Brown and Valentine accounted for six of the losers' seven bingles.

The defeat dropped East Side from third to fifth place in the league standings, North End moved into third place and the Jupers fourth.

Lacy's Extend String

Lacy's Delicatets registered their fifth straight win of the second half race by turning back Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, 5 to 3, at Community Park. Jim Wright marked up his fifth pitching triumph against two setbacks, "Bee" Orndorff paced the winners' attack with three hits while Walter "Pooch" Orndorff tripled with one on base. "Babe" Crabtree handled six chances at short and "Snip" Hawse accepted eleven chances at first base without a miscue. Raupach was the Legion's best bet with a double and single.

Pat Algieri's hitting and fielding highlighted Williams Street's 5 to 2 win over the Maccabees at Taylor field. The Merchants' third sacker collected two timely hits and played a bangup game at the hot corner. Morgan obtained two of the Bees' seven safeties.

North End Tops V.F.W.

A sensational catch by Mulvey in left-center with the bases loaded and George Rice's hitting were features as the North End Social and Athletic Club humbled the Veterans of Foreign Wars at Campobello, 7 to 2. $30 Top Set For Title Go Between Louis-Mauriello

Match Is Scheduled For Yankee Stadium Sept. 18; New Yorker Has Won 12 In Row

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP) — The next victim to be led into the pit against bomber Joe Louis will be Tami Mauriello, a pudgy barkeep out of the Bronx who is a perfectly rational young man except that he wants to get into a fight with the heavyweight champion.

After telling practically everyone that the Billy Conn clambake of a couple of weeks back would be his only ring appearance this year, Bomber Joe listened to the soothing persuasions of Promoter Mike Jacobs and agreed today to put his title on the line for the 23rd time against thumping Tami on Sept. 18 in Yankee stadium.

Sets Top at $30

But the peacefulness of the Conn affair at $100 per seat taught Mike one thing—that you can lead gus fan and the missus to a box office, but you can't make them put up their cash. As a result, he's marking this one down to $30 tops—and $3 bottoms—and has scaled the big Bronx ballyard for a gate of something over a million dollars.

Tami, whose real name is Steve and who borrowed his older brother's tag because he was too young to get a beak-busting license of his own, signed for the fight on Monday, agreeing to take 15 percent as well as whatever bumps and bruises he may acquire in the course of the proceedings.

Louis To Get 40 Per Cent

Louis, meantime, held up his okay because of some hitch which was reported to have developed in his fistic family. But Promoter Mike kept after him so long and so often that the phone company was about to declare an extra dividend. And today Joe finally gave Mike the green light in a conversation from Detroit where he's catching up on his golf. He'll get his usual 40 per cent plus whatever exercise may be necessary to knock the roof in on Tami.

Joe will set up his training shop at his usual Pompton Lakes, N. J., base on Aug. 1. Tami still hasn't decided where he'll get ready for what's being cooked up for him. Louis will weigh about 208 to Tami's 194.

In the record books, Tami's age is 26, but he's actually three years younger. It seems that back in '39, when he first started in the bash-for-cash business, he was only 16, and the powers that be don't think a youngster that age can take a poke in the nose in the approved manner. As a result, he used his older brother's name and started up the thumping trail.

Won Last 12 Starts

An orthodox-style, stand-up swatter with a good straight left and a hard right, he's had 77 fights, lost only seven, and has flattened 51 opponents. The Mauriello cheering and chowder society boasts that Louis has only 49 knockouts to his credit, but the comparison, up to this writing, was not causing Joe to miss any niblick shots. Tami has won his last 12 starts in order, making the birdies sing for the other guy in 11 of them. The latest was Bruce Woodcock, the British Empire champ, who went to sleep in five rounds on May 17.

Two Leagues Formed At Camp Cliffside

The second week of the Camp Cliffside boys' camp is under way with 53 young campers enjoying every minute of the day. The opening day of the second week saw two junior and two senior teams in action, the juniors playing basketball and the seniors softball. In the basketball game the Hornets stung the Yankees 18-2 while in the softball contest the Hellcats downed the Black Widows 4-1.

SENIOR LEAGUE

Hellcats: Jerry Swann, captain; Don Scott, Creed Greer, Tommy Van Vranken, Franklin Phares, Bobby Reinhart, Teddy Blunk and Billy Greer.

Black Widows: Ralph Hickman, captain; E. J. Messersmith, Stanley Fulton, Richard Dixon, Jimmy Lemmert, Gene Athy, Buddy Walwood and Billy Adams.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

Yankees: Leo Franklin, captain; Ramsey Tobias, Johnny Haws, Don Spidester, Warner Deneen, Tommy Mudge, John Blunk, Pushy Cather, Mickey McLane, Freddie Norton, Harry Bowden and Butch Leimbach.

Hornets: Reynolds Hill, captain; Jerry Lancaster, Tommy Lewis, Carl Winfield, Billy Bixby, Carl Slemmer, Bobby Sloan, Paul Landis, Warren Paul, Bobby Jones, Warren White and Denny La Coss.

Retains Ring Title

WILL FIGHT BOMBER

TAMI MAURIELLO, burley Bronx heavyweight, will be Joe Louis' next opponent. The "Brown Bomber" will put his world heavyweight title on the line for the 23rd time against the New Yorker on September 18 at the Yankee Stadium. Mauriello has won his last twelve fights, eleven via the knockout route, including Bruce Woodcock, British Empire champion.

Carolyn A Takes Juvenile Stakes

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, N. Y., July 10. (AP)—The riding wizardry of America's premier jockey, Eddie Arcaro, proved a vital factor as B. F. Whitaker's Carolyn A. captured today's $20,000 added Demoiselle Stakes, the Empire City Cllub's richest offering for juvenile fillies.

The Newport, Ky., veteran risked possible injury and disqualification through his daring tactics and drove the homebred daughter of Questionnaire (one of the best racers and sires ever to represent the James Butler family which long has operated the Empire City Association) to a length conquest over W. H. Laboyteaux's Pipette. Another length away, A. B. Hancock's With Honor was third, two lengths before Mrs. H. C. Phipps's Keynote, the favorite.

C. V. Whitney's Bright Song was fifth and her rider Ruperto Donoso, claimed foul to no avail against the winner, saying his mount was bothered at the top of the stretch. Bright Song was carrying on in the enforced absence of her more illustrious stablemate, First Flight, which yesterday fell victim to coughing.

Carolyn A. paid $11.90, was timed in 1:12 3-5 for the six furlongs and took down a purse of $33,550 before 22,523 fans.

In her previous race, the bay "Bobby Soxer" captured a maiden affair for her first triumph in three starts. Prior to today, she had earned only $2,900.

Nelson Is Choice To Win Tourney At Kansas City

Players Report Byron Is "In The Groove" For $20,000 Event

By SKIPPER PATRICK

KANSAS CITY, July 10 (AP) — Only Byron Nelson, the mechanical golfing man, declined today to nominate Nelson as the man to beat for first money in Kansas City's $20,000 invitational tournament beginning tomorrow.

Several of the players predicted a free-for-all with Nelson, Bantam Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa., Sam Snead, Hot Springs, Va., and Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago, as the "big 4" in the four-day affair, but the majority of the contestants said they felt Nelson would win.

"The ole Toledo umbrella man is in the groove again," offered Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Sanford, Me., chief spokesman for the Nelson boom. "And when Nelson is in the groove there isn't anything you can do about it. He showed us at Columbus (Ohio) last week that he still has the stuff to win."

Nelson, who has won all of the big tournaments in the books, wasn't so sure that he could take this one.

"Hogan, Mangrum, Snead and half a dozen others are capable of winning," Nelson volunteered, "and the man that gets hot will win. I'm not driving myself as hard as I did a year ago, but I'm still trying just as hard to win."

Nelson's victory in the Columbus open was his first since the Houston, Tex., invitational in May. At that, the man who captured 19 of 31 tournaments in 1945 and had a gross earning of appproximately $53,000, insisted there is nothing wrong with his game.

"I've won 5 of the 15 tournaments I have played in this year and I think that's pretty good in a strong field," Nelson said. "Some you are supposed to win and some you aren't. Some days you shoot your best and another fellow gets hot and burns up the course."

Maryland's Mile Tracks Must Use Receiving Barns

Order Goes Into Effect Oct. 1; Half Milers Come Later

BALTIMORE, July 10 (AP) — Major tracks in Maryland were ordered today by the racing commission to have receiving barns in use by Oct. 1 as an added protection against tampering with horses.

Laurel, Pimlico and Bowie, which conduct fall meetings, will be affected by the ruling.

Not affected were half-mile tracks operating this summer, but the commission said that modern receiving barns would be required at all tracks at a later date.

Receiving barns were used in Maryland this spring for the first time following a series of stimulation cases in the fall.

The commission requires that all horses be in the receiving barn two hours before post-time of the race in which they are entered.

It said experience showed that use of receiving barns reduces the possibility of outside tampering, prevents use of chains and electric devices to "pep up" horses, allows more time for positive identification of horses and gives veterinarians sufficient time to examine horses for soundness.

Cubs Get Pitcher

SHREVEPORT, La., (AP) — Doyle Lade, 25-year-old Shreveport pitching ace, went to the Chicago Cubs yesterday in a deal involving an undisclosed amount of cash and two players — one of the biggest transactions ever made by the Sports.

Lade will join the Cubs after the 1946 season, Bonneau Peters, President of the club, said in announcing the sale.

Sabin Is Winner Over Bill Tilden In Pro Net Meet

Big Bill Loses Five-Set Match; Bobby Riggs, Fred Perry Score

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., July 10—(AP)—Bill Tilden of Philadelphia bowed out of the national professional grass court championships today at the West Side Tennis Club, but before his match with Wayne Sabin, of Reno, Nev., was finished, Big Bill, as usual, had given the gallery a real show.

Sabin, seeded No. 6, finally won the match, 4-6, 7-9, 6-1, 6-1, 6-0, but it was mainly because of the wearing-down process exercised on the 53-year-old Tilden. Big Bill was in complete command of the first set.

The upper half of the quarter-final bracket was completed with Bobby Riggs of Los Angeles, ranked at the top, scoring over John March of New York, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3; John Faunce of Los Angeles, seventh seeded overcoming the resistance of Jack Jossi of Oakland, Calif., rated at No. 9, 6-4, 9-7, 6-1, and Fred Perry of Las Vegas, Nev., coming through with a 6-3, 6-3, 6-2 triumph over Frank Goeltz of Washington, D. C.

The summaries:

THIRD ROUND (SINGLES)
Robert Riggs, Los Angeles, defeated John March, New York, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.
John Faunce, Los Angeles, defeated Jack Jossi, Oakland, 6-4, 9-7, 6-1.
Fred Perry, Las Vegas, Nev., defeated Frank Goeltz, Washington, D. C., 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.
Wayne Sabin, Reno, Nev., defeated Wm. Tilden II, Philadelphia, 4-6, 7-9, 6-1, 6-1.
QUARTER FINAL ROUND (DOUBLES)
Frank Kovacs, Oakland, Calif., and Fred Perry, Las Vegas, Nev., defeated Lloyd Budge, Miami, and Herman Petersen, New York, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

Brown And Patty Beat Swedish Tennis Players

VARBERG, Sweden, July 10. (AP) —Tom Brown and Budge Patty, California tennis stars, whipped the Swedish Davis Cup combination of Torsten Johansson and Lennart Bergelin, 7-5, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3, today in an international challenge match.

The Swedes have advanced to the European Zone finals against Yugoslavia in Davis cup competition.

Margaret Osborne of San Francisco defeated Alva Bjoerk, 6-2, 6-3.

Eighty-eight-year-old King Gustave watched the matches and said later he planned to make a comeback as a player this summer, competing in a tournament at the seaside resort of Baastad.

Chandler And Feller To Hook Up Tonight At Yankee Stadium

SPUD CHANDLER

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP)—Two of the American league's top pitchers, Bobby Feller and Spud Chandler, will hook up tomorrow night in Yankee stadium when the Cleveland Indians tangle with the Yankees.

Feller, who hurled last Sunday and the first three innings of the All-Star game yesterday, asked Manager Lou Boudreau to pitch him out of turn against the Yanks. With 190 strikeouts to his credit already this year, the Tribe fireballer is eyeing Rube Waddell's record 343 for a season, back in 1904.

Feller has whipped the Yanks four times this season—including a no-hit job—while Chandler has knocked over the Indians in four games.

D. C. Boy Wins Jaycee Golf

Washington Lad Posts 78, Earns Trip To Spokane

Jay Wolf, 17, Qualifies For National Event Over CCC Course

Posting a score of 78 for 18 holes, Jay Wolf, 17, of Washington, D. C., took first place in the Maryland and District of Columbia qualifying round of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce's first annual national junior golf tournament yesterday at the Cumberland Country Club course and immediately after the test announced that he will compete in the finals scheduled for Spokane, Wash., August 5 to 10.

Wolf, son of Dr. and Mrs. Morris Wolf, 1728 Poplar Lane, N. W., Washington, D. C., stated that he will go to Spokane for the national event with an uncle. The lad learned his golf at the Indian Head Country Club course at Silver Spring, Md., and played in the pro-amateur tourney on Monday at the Kenwood Golf Club, Washington, D. C., in which Carroll Boggs and Clifton Van Roby, of the Cumberland Country Club, participated. Wolf comes from a golfing family as his father, mother and brother also excel in the popular sport.

The leader's medal score was:

Out	455	453	444—38
In	485	454	453—40—78

Two Cumberland boys also qualified for the Spokane tourney but they advised Roby, who played with them, kept score and shot a par 37-33—70, they are not planning to make the trip.

Richard Imes, caddy master at the Cumberland Country Club, was runner-up with a 47-42—89. His holeby-hole score was:

Out	555	655	556—47
In	464	546	553—42—89

Edward Mullan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Mullan, 621 Montgomery avenue, was last among the three competitors with a 47—46—93. Mullan is a former LaSalle student. His medal score was:

Out	575	555	555—47
In	463	873	564—46—93

Roby, who acted as chairman of the Maryland-D.C. qualifying round, for the sponsoring organization, the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, said that Wolf received golf balls as prizes for winning the event.

Two hundred boys are expected to compete in the national junior championship tournament next month at the Indian Canyon Golf Club, Spokane.

SPUD CHANDLER

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP)—Two of the American league's top pitchers, Bobby Feller and Spud Chandler, will hook up tomorrow night in Yankee stadium when the Cleveland Indians tangle with the Yankees.

Feller, who hurled last Sunday and the first three innings of the All-Star game yesterday, asked Manager Lou Boudreau to pitch him out of turn against the Yanks. With 190 strikeouts to his credit already this year, the Tribe fireballer is eyeing Rube Waddell's record 343 for a season, back in 1904.

Feller has whipped the Yanks four times this season—including a no-hit job—while Chandler has knocked over the Indians in four games.

Busher Gets Top Weight For Hollywood Gold Cup

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 10 (AP)—Louis B. Mayer's Busher, 1945 "Horse of the year," is top-weighted at 126 pounds as the impost table for the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup July 27.

The four-year-old filly received one pound more than Abe Hirschberg's five-year-old Occupy, winner of the Argonaut Handicap here. Norman W. Church's Reward, surprise winner of the July 4 American Handicap, was next at 123 pounds.

The top trio was followed closely on Racing Secretary John Maluvius's scale by Mrs. A. L. Rice's team of Sirde, 122, and Snow Boots, 120.

Veto In U. N. To Be Topic On Radio For Discussion

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, July 10 — Some are shows but most of them are summer shows, that is those programs coming on the networks these days to fill sponsored times or to take over directly for the sponsor.

A sudden addition to the list is the decision of the Dick Haymes show of CBS at 8 p. m. to take a vacation, sponsor having picked Gordon Jenkins orchestra to do the fill-ins. Also there will be song from the Suitcase six, the Four Hits and a Miss and a chorus.

MBS also has a new one, Family Affair, which the announcement says will go in at 9:30 for two broadcasts. It is another variation of the quiz, with Bill Slater running things. The name derives from the fact that members of two families will be pitted against each other in a sort of a quiz-down.

Also on MBS at 10:30 a. m. Tuesdays and Thursdays Bill Harrington for the time being is doing a song series. He is not scheduled beyond July 25.

Continuing to broadcast from Chautauqua, N. Y., America's Town meet of ABC at 7:30 p. m. will put this kind of a question "Should the veto be abolished in UN?" In the panel of four will be Sen. Chas. W. Tobey of New Hampshire.

When Gen. D. D. Eisenhower receives an award at Amherst, Mass., there will be an NBC broadcast at 12:30 p. m. It is the American alumni's council merit recognition for "distinguished world service." . . .The Benny Goodman clarinet, and of course Benny, will drop around for Vaughn Monroe's summer show on NBC at 9. He'll play, too.

Margarine was first developed by a French chemist in 1870 to ease a fat shortage resulting from the Franco-Prussian War.

In Memoriam

SPINETTA, John—In loving memory of my dear son, John Spinetta, who departed this life three years ago today, July 11, 1943.

A face that is ever before me,
A voice that I cannot forget,
A smile that will be lost forever,
In memory I see him yet.

Gone from this world of grief and sorrow
To lands of peace and rest;
God has taken you my dear son,
Where you have found eternal rest.

His loving Mother,
MRS. MARGARET SPINETTA.

SALESMAN

One of the oldest and largest national organizations is opening a division in Cumberland and has opening for three topnotch men. Good character, intelligence, the energy and ambition to be successful are the requisites. We train you thoroughly, supply definite leads and give every needed cooperation. We want men who are looking for a successful lifetime position in a dignified and most worthy field. If you have real executive ability you can find your level with us. We have your opportunity. During 1945 a former N. C. County Superintendent of Schools earned over $8,500 in N. C. This was his first year with us. A former $35-per-week shoe clerk earned over $10,000 in N. C. A former school teacher earned $248 with us last week, which was his fourth week with us. Two recently discharged servicemen are earning an average of $140 per week in their initial training period with us. These records are open to anyone. We have numerous similar cases in various states. Our clientele is the finest. We require good representatives. I will be in Cumberland within two weeks to interview applicants. If you are appointed, I will personally demonstrate before you how simple it is to earn upwards from $150 per week with us. Please write, giving qualifications, address and telephone to:

SPINETTA, John—In loving memory of my dear son, John Spinetta, who departed this life three years ago today, July 11, 1943.

A face that is ever before me,
A voice that I cannot forget,
A smile that will be lost forever,
In memory I see him yet.

Gone from this world of grief and sorrow
To lands of peace and rest;
God has taken you my dear son,
Where you have found eternal rest.

SALESMAN

One of the oldest and largest national organizations is opening a division in Cumberland and has opening for three topnotch men. Good character, intelligence, the energy and ambition to be successful are the requisites. We train you thoroughly, supply definite leads and give every needed cooperation. We want men who are looking for a successful lifetime position in a dignified and most worthy field. If you have real executive ability you can find your level with us. We have your opportunity. During 1945 a former N. C. County Superintendent of Schools earned over $8,500 in N. C. This was his first year with us. A former $35-per-week shoe clerk earned over $10,000 in N. C. A former school teacher earned $248 with us last week, which was his fourth week with us. Two recently discharged servicemen are earning an average of $140 per week in their initial training period with us. These records are open to anyone. We have numerous similar cases in various states. Our clientele is the finest. We require good representatives. I will be in Cumberland within two weeks to interview applicants. If you are appointed, I will personally demonstrate before you how simple it is to earn upwards from $150 per week with us. Please write, giving qualifications, address and telephone to:

Gracey Predicts Sizable Increase In Air Travel

Vice President Of Graham Aviation Says Helicopters Will Develop

Martin Gracey, vice president of the Graham Aviation Company, predicted last night that the greatest increase ir air traffic will be in non-scheduled flights of commercially operated planes and in flights of purely personal type planes.

Gracey, vice president of the company and manager of the Johnstown, Pa., airport, in his address before the Tri-State Traffic Club at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, admitted that although the use of helicopters has shown great strides, another 10 years will be required to develop the type of plane for general use due to the high cost of construction.

Education Is Needed

Mass production of planes for personal use, he added, is still to be developed and manufacturers want to know what the public will buy before going into mass production. The public, he added, must also be fully educated to the use of planes for private flying.

Gracey declared that pilot licenses are not hard to secure at present since the C. A. A. has lowered the prewar physical and mental standards so that it will soon be as easy to get a license to fly a plane as to operate an automobile.

The Graham executive said the company plans to establish a flying school, a school for mechanics in airplane repair and a training school for G. I.'s since flight training is now permissable under the G. I. Bill of Rights.

Car Loading Increase

Increased railroad car loadings and truck loadings were reported by Leo H. Ley, T. M. Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, who presented the docket for the evening.

The Office of Defense Transportation, members were told, is expected to continue with an appropriation of $325,000 to see it through April 1, 1947. Present orders restricting the use of box cars may be expected to change only slightly as the demand continues to exceed the demand.

Arrangements for last night's meeting of the club were in charge of Clarence E. Gehr, D. F. A., of the Western Maryland Railway, president, and John L. Carnochan, secretary, and included entertainment by Oscar Parrish, LaVale magician. The club will not meet in August, Gehr said.

C. W. McDermott Is Chosen As Acting Postmaster Here

C. William McDermott, 860 Gephart drive, was recommended by the Democratic state central committee last night, for appointment as acting postmaster, to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of James A. Shriver, the News learned from a reliable source.

Members of the committee contacted by telephone last night said all statements regarding the committee's activities should come from the chairman, Oliver H. Bruce, Jr. Efforts to reach Chairman Bruce at his home were unsuccessful.

It was also reliably learned that the recommendation of McDermott was not unanimous, and that the committee was divided on its choice.

Mystery Of Human Embryos Is Solved By York Physician

An investigation begun by police yesterday into the discovery of five preserved human embryos in the attic of the old King home near Ellerslie was solved early this morning when a physician, Dr. Orden E. Miller, York, Pa., brother of a former owner of the property, reported he obtained them for study while he was interning at two hospitals in Pennsylvania.

Dr. Miller said he stored the fetuses, preserved in alcohol in bottles, at his brother's farm while he was in the armed forces in World War II. He said the fetuses were left in a back room on the first floor of the farm home, but that when he returned for them this past summer after being discharged, they had been moved and he was unable to find them.

The fetuses were found Tuesday night by DeForest M. See, 24, a war veteran and member of the family who recently bought the property. The younger See reported the find to state police who began the investigation.

Statements of expenses of six Republican candidates for county offices in the Republican primary election campaign have been filed in the office of the clerk of circuit court.

Two of the statements were filed by men who had no opposition in the election, but their statements covered their filing fees and advertising.

Robert Jackson, renominated for clerk of the circuit court without opposition, listed expenses totaling $37. Of that amount $25 represented the filing fee and $12 the cost of program advertising.

Terminal Location Action Requested

Deadline for submission of a union bus terminal plan to the city was suggested in a letter received by Mayor Thomas S. Post yesterday from the Merchandise Mart.

John Stewart, president of the Mart, points out that a month ago a meeting was held with representatives of the various bus companies and city officials in attendance, and that two companies asked that a final decision on the selection of a terminal site be delayed until locations other than the Mart, the former Footer Building on South Mechanic street, were considered.

Stewart says that nothing further has been heard and suggests that the council fix a deadline.

"The traffic situation is daily becoming more acute and will steadily get worse as a larger number of cars appear on the streets," writes Stewart. "In addition these cars will be used to a greater extent than in the past four years. We are prepared to go through with our proposition and give the public the relief it merits, and we are assured that three of the bus companies will use our terminal."

Mayor Post said he will refer the letter to the council at Monday's meeting.

C. & P. Telephone Company Plans Open House Tuesday, Wednesday

An open house will be held next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at the Cumberland office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company, 108 Union street, from 7 to 9:30 o'clock each evening, according to Joseph Cromwell, Hagerstown, district commercial supervisor.

Cromwell is handling arrangements for the open house in the absence of Howard M. Smith, manager of the Cumberland office, who will return from his vacation early next week.

The event has been planned to give Cumberland residents an opportunity to see the operation of the telephone office and to understand the intricate process of handling local and long distance calls.

Cromwell said approximately 400 invitations have been mailed to various groups, including city officials, and service clubs, as well as to customers of the company and to those who have put in orders for telephone service. The public is invited to attend.

Demonstrations Listed

A feature will be a demonstration of the "voice mirror," an instrument similar to a dictaphone, which records a person's speaking voice on a steel tape instead of on a plastic disc. When the recording is played back, the person can hear the way his voice sounds over a telephone. Cromwell said the steel tape may be demagnetized and used repeatedly for separate voice recordings. He plans to bring the instrument here from Baltimore next week.

Visitors will also be shown the method of splicing cables, an intricate job calling for the soldering of each of the hundreds of wires in one length of caple to the corresponding wire in the next length.

After an inspection of the business office on the first floor, visitors will be taken to the second floor to the central exchange, where they will watch operators handling local and long distance calls. Although the greatest volume of calls is handled between 9 a. m. and noon, the open house was scheduled in the evening because more persons would be able to attend the event, Cromwell said.

Employes To Be Guides

Also scheduled are tours of the terminal room on the second floor, where mechanical equipment is located, including motors, the test board and emergency batteries.

A sound-powered telephone, operating on the same principle as a radio, will also be demonstrated. The telephone, developed by the Western Electric Company, was used by the army and navy during the war.

Between 15 to 20 employes of the Cumberland office, including service representatives, operators and technicians, will act as guides, Cromwell said, adding that regular telephone service will not be interfered with on those evenings because the operators have volunteered their services on their own time.

Besides Smith, who will greet visitors as they arrive, others on the committee arranging for the open house are Mrs. Helen M. Johnson, chief operator, and E. H. Bender, plant wire chief. Cromwell will attend with representatives from the district office in Hagerstown, including R. L. Schleunes, former Cumberland manager and the present district commercial manager; W. R. Dorsey, district traffic manager; and J. F. McCray, district plant manager.

Beall High Work May Start Soon

The program of grading and improving the Beall high school athletic field and grounds is expected to get underway soon with the scheduled arrival yesterday of a bulldozer and carrier, completing the list of War Surplus Commodities equipment received by the board of education for that work and work on other school grounds in the county.

Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools, said yesterday that a number of applications have been received by Joseph Downey, superintendent of buildings and grounds, from experienced operators of power equipment.

Faced by mounting construction and labor costs, Downey recently decided to go to the War department in an attempt to obtain surplus equipment which could be manned by board of education employes. It is estimated that the equipment obtained will enable the board to cut costs around 70 per cent. The equipment, including the bulldozer, grader and other machinery was obtained free, but the board is paying the shipping costs.

Welfare Board Plans To Open Infants' Home

The Allegany County Welfare Board has obtained the services of an "ideal couple" to operate an especially planned foster home on North Centre street in a move to put the baby adoption business on a stable basis, Mrs. Eleanor Westerfield, director of the board, reported yesterday.

Mrs. Westerfeld declined to give the names of the couple who will manage the home—which will be complete with nursery and grounds for children to play in—since she feals prospective parents should first contact the welfare department and go "through channels."

The home will be ready for occupancy by the end of this month, however, and Mrs. Westerfeldt said her staff will be prepared to take the names of area couples who would like to adopt babies.

Babies To Get Tests

"We've never really had a place to take care of babies awaiting adoption before", Mrs. Westerfeldt said today. "Now, we will be able to take care of them up to three months and have an opportunity to study the children."

During the three-month period, the children will be examined twice by physicians and also by a psychologist. All pertinent information regarding the child's background will be secured, the child's disposition will be studied—and consequently the Welfare Board feels it will be able to acquaint prospective parents with all particulars concerning the children they may wish to adopt.

"Children should not be awarded just any parents', Mrs. Westerfeldt said today. "An adoption represents quite an adjustment both for the child and the parents and both the couples and the children should compliment each other as far as possible.

Two More Homes Needed

While Mrs. Westerfeldt is pleased with the success of the board to date, she indicated she does not intend to stop now. The Welfare Department also needs two additional homes—one for children over six years of age and another for those up to the age of six, in addition to the home opening up this month, which will also be for children under six years of age.

During the past year, the Welfare Board has had five babies to provide for. But prior to that time the board, due to its inability to cope with the situation, had to refer babies to other sources—generally out of town.

"Now, however, parents will be sure what they are getting", Mrs. Westerfeldt said. The new home will have facilities for five children, she added.

Veteran Is Named To Fort Hill Staff

Artie John Stauffer, New York city, photography and radio specialist recently discharged from the navy, has been named to the faculty of Fort Hill high school as a science teacher, Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools, said yesterday.

Stauffer, 30, served as an instructor at the Midshipman's school, Fort Schuyler, N. Y., during the war, teaching radio and electrical engineering.

Stauffer was graduated from West Virginia University in 1937 with a major in physics and a minor in mathematics. One year later he completed his work for a masters' degree in physical science at the University of Pittsburg. Last term he took refresher courses in psychology of learning and analysis of variance at Columbia University.

At West Virginia University, Stauffer was a laboratory instructor during his senior year. His experience in secondary education consists of two years as a teacher of mathematics in Confluence, Pa., High School and more recently he has been teaching radio physics at the R.C.A. Institute.

Stauffer, who has a well-rounded scientific background, has also worked with the installation and maintenance of sound equipment—experience that will probably be utilized by the high school, Rizer commented.

Truth In News Reports Stressed By Local Editor

Newspapers today are writing daily history and if that history is to be accurate it must be founded on truth, and this applies to local, state, national and international affairs, O. J. Hale, assistant managing editor of the Cumberland News, said in address before the Cumberland Lions Club at Central YMCA yesterday.

"Never in history was it more necessary that democratic peoples receive accurate news and information," Hale asserted. "Never was it more necessary that such news and information should be free from propaganda, bias, censorship and from careless and inefficient handling. I say this because in democratic countries news and information in the daily press is the main basis of public opinion."

Hale told the Lions that at no time in history have readers of newspapers looked, and rightfully so, he added, to newspapers to bring them truthfully the developments in the world at large. He said readers expect and are entitled to factual, accurate and uncolored reports, and a true picture of the events of present day happenings.

The speaker then outlined to the Lions how the reportorial staff of the News gathers articles for the paper, how they are written, edited, set in type, and explained the various operations from the time a story was secured until the paper reaches the reading public.

Acknowledging that many mistakes creep into not only the Cumberland News but all papers, Hale related many amusing paragraphs which have appeared in papers throughout the country in the last 25 years.

Medical Care Cost Set At $36,800

Estimated cost of the medical care budget in Allegany county for the year beginning July 1, 1946 and ending June 30, 1947 is $36,800, Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, chairman of the county medical care board, told members of the board at their monthly meeting yesterday in his office.

Dr. Franklin said that although the state allocated $18,800 for the program last year, a larger appropriation will probably be needed for the current year because of an expected increase in demand for dental services, and because a greater volume of applications by medically indigent persons is anticipated.

A program for the medically indigent was approved last month, and five applications, all for dental care, have been received since that time.

In January, 1945, the state legislature allocated $18,800 to the county for each year of a two-year period beginning July 1, 1945, and ending June 30, 1947, Dr. Franklin said.

Funds in excess of that amount would have to be allotted from the state contingent fund, with the approval of the board of public works.

Total figures of expenditures since the county program began operating last fall will not be available until June expenditures have been listed, Dr. Franklin said.

Board members decided to hold their next regular meeting in October, unless it becomes necessary to call a special meeting before that time.

EXCHANGE CLUB WILL NAME COMMITTEES

Members of the standing committees of the Cumberland Exchange Club will be named by Daniel L. D'Amicol, newly elected president of the local civic club, at a meeting of the group next Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine country club.

D'Amicol, with George H. Tederick, vice president; Thomas L. Keech, secretary-treasurer and Daniel Brown, Blair Welch and Edward Wolfe, new members of the board of control, were installed Tuesday evening by Jerome G. Daniker, Baltimore, district governor of the organization.

Featured on the ladies night program of the club were music by Donna Zembower, Royce Hendrickson, Don Burgess and Shirley Hendrickson, of the Stewart Music Home.

Committees to be named include membership, program, finance, attendance, community service, publicity, citizenship and exchange relations and fellowship.

Wife Says Mate Made Her Pick Coal From Bank

Mrs. Mary Winebrenner, 41, Terms Husband "No Good"; Gets Divorce

An absolute divorce has been granted in circuit court to Mrs. Mary L. Winebrenner, 41, Garrett county, who testified that her husband, Henry E. Winebrenner, forced her to take in washing and pick coal from a slate bank to make a living. Chief Judge William A. Huster signed the decree yesterday.

Mrs. Winebrenner said she and her husband were married January 22, 1923, at Frostburg, and lived together until March 3, 1943, when they were living at Zihlman.

"My husband was very mean to me. He drank a good deal and did not work," Mrs. Winebrenner stated. She added, "When I refused to turn my hard-earned money over to him to buy booze he put me out. This was on March 3, 1943."

Worked Hard

Mrs. Winebrenner declared that she did nothing to cause her husband's conduct. "I worked hard and did everything possible to hold up my end of the bargain," she stated, "but my husband was just no good."

Noel Speir Cook was attorney for Mrs. Winebrenner and John T. Fey represented the defendant.

Mrs. Elsie May Miller filed suit for divorce from Herman L. Miller on grounds of desertion. Thorugh her attorney, Clarence Shutter, she said they were married August 26, 1944, and lived together until January 5, 1945. She asked permission to resume use of her maiden name, Divelbiss. Judge Huster signed an order directing Miller to pay counsel fee for his wife.

Wants Children's Custody

Suit for an absolute divorce from Williard L. Clay was filed by Mrs. Frances B. Clay. Her attorney, Shutter, said they were married August 15, 1937, in Cumberland. Mrs. Clay asks the custody of their daughters, one 7 and the other 4.

Henry S. Morrissey filed suit for divorce from Mrs. Bessie J. Morrissey on undisclosed grounds. He is represented by F. Brooke Whiting.

Gracey Predicts Sizable Increase In Air Travel

Vice President Of Graham Aviation Says Helicopters Will Develop

Martin Gracey, vice president of the Graham Aviation Company, predicted last night that the greatest increase in air traffic will be in non-scheduled flights of commercially operated planes and in flights of purely personal type planes.

Gracey, vice president of the company and manager of the Johnstown, Pa., airport, in his address before the Tri-State Traffic Club at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, admitted that although the use of helicopters has shown great strides, another 10 years will be required to develop the type of plane for general use due to the high cost of construction.

Education Is Needed

Mass production of planes for personal use, he added, is still to be developed and manufacturers want to know what the public will buy before going into mass production. The public, he added, must also be fully educated to the use of planes for private flying.

Gracey declared that pilot licenses are not hard to secure at present since the C. A. A. has lowered the prewar physical and mental standards so that it will soon be as easy to get a license to fly a plane as to operate an automobile.

The Graham executive said the company plans to establish a flying school, a school for mechanics in airplane repair and a training school for G. I.'s since flight training is now permissable under the G. I. Bill of Rights.

Car Loading Increase

Increased railroad car loadings and truck loadings were reported by Leo H. Ley, T. M. Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, who presented the docket for the evening.

The Office of Defense Transportation, members were told, is expected to continue with an appropriation of $325,000 to see it through April 1, 1947. Present orders restricting the use of box cars may be expected to change only slightly as the demand continues to exceed the demand.

Arrangements for last night's meeting of the club were in charge of Clarence E. Gehr, D. F. A., of the Western Maryland Railway, president, and John L. Carnochan, secretary, and included entertainment by Oscar Parrish, LaVale magician. The club will not meet in August, Gehr said.

Mystery Of Human Embryos Is Solved By York Physician

An investigation begun by police yesterday into the discovery of five preserved human embryos in the attic of the old King home near Ellerslie was solved early this morning when a physician, Dr. Orden E. Miller, York, Pa., brother of a former owner of the property, reported he obtained them for study while he was interning at two hospitals in Pennsylvania.

Dr. Miller said he stored the fetuses, preserved in alcohol in bottles, at his brother's farm while he was in the armed forces in World War II. He said the fetuses were left in a back room on the first floor of the farm home, but that when he returned for them this past summer after being discharged, they had been moved and he was unable to find them.

The fetuses were found Tuesday night by DeForest M. See, 24, a war veteran and member of the family who recently bought the property. The younger See reported the find to state police who began the investigation.

Terminal Location Action Requested

Deadline for submission of a union bus terminal plan to the city was suggested in a letter received by Mayor Thomas S. Post yesterday from the Merchandise Mart.

John Stewart, president of the Mart, points out that a month ago a meeting was held with representatives of the various bus companies and city officials in attendance, and that two companies asked that a final decision on the selection of a terminal site be delayed until locations other than the Mart, the former Footer Building on South Mechanic street, were considered.

Stewart says that nothing further has been heard and suggests that the council fix a deadline.

"The traffic situation is daily becoming more acute and will steadily get worse as a larger number of cars appear on the streets," writes Stewart. "In addition these cars will be used to a greater extent than in the past four years. We are prepared to go through with our proposition and give the public the relief it merits, and we are assured that three of the bus companies will use our terminal."

Mayor Post said he will refer the letter to the council at Monday's meeting.

C. & P. Telephone Company Plans Open House Tuesday, Wednesday

An open house will be held next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at the Cumberland office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company, 108 Union street, from 7 to 9:30 o'clock each evening, according to Joseph Cromwell, Hagerstown, district commercial supervisor.

Cromwell is handling arrangements for the open house in the absence of Howard M. Smith, manager of the Cumberland office, who will return from his vacation early next week.

The event has been planned to give Cumberland residents an opportunity to see the operation of the telephone office and to understand the intricate processa of handling local and long distance calls.

Cromwell said approximately 400 invitations have been mailed to various groups, including city officials, and service clubs, as well as to customers of the company and to those who have put in orders for telephone service. The public is invited to attend.

Demonstrations Listed

A feature will be a demonstration of the "voice mirror," an instrument similar to a dictaphone, which records a person's speaking voice on a steel tape instead of on a plastic disc. When the recording is played back, the person can hear the way his voice sounds over a telephone. Cromwell said the steel tape may be demagnetized and used repeatedly for separate voice recordings. He plans to bring the instrument here from Baltimore next week.

Visitors will also be shown the method of splicing cables, an intricate job calling for the soldering of each of the hundreds of wires in one length of caple to the corresponding wire in the next length.

After an inspection of the business office on the first floor, visitors will be taken to the second floor to the central exchange, where they will watch operators handling local and long distance calls. Although the greatest volume of calls is handled between 9 a. m. and noon, the open house was scheduled in the evening because more persons would be able to attend the event, Cromwell said.

Employes To Be Guides

Also scheduled are tours of the terminal room on the second floor, where mechanical equipment is located, including motors, the test board and emergency batteries.

A sound-powered telephone, operating on the same principle as a radio, will also be demonstrated. The telephone, developed by the Western Electric Company, was used by the army and navy during the war.

Between 15 to 20 employes of the Cumberland office, including service representatives, operators and technicians, will act as guides, Cromwell said, adding that regular telephone service will not be interfered with on those evenings because the operators have volunteered their services on their own time.

Besides Smith, who will greet visitors as they arrive, others on the committee arranging for the open house are Mrs. Helen M. Johnson, chief operator, and E. H. Bender, plant wire chief. Cromwell will attend with representatives from the district office in Hagerstown, including R. L. Schleunes, former Cumberland manager and the present district commercial manager; W. R. Dorsey, district traffic manager; and J. F. McCray, district plant manager.

Beall High Work May Start Soon

The program of grading and improving the Beall high school athletic field and grounds is expected to get underway soon with the scheduled arrival yesterday of a bulldozer and carrier, completing the list of War Surplus Commodities equipment received by the board of education for that work and work on other school grounds in the county.

Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools, said yesterday that a number of applications have been received by Joseph Downey, superintendent of buildings and grounds, from experienced operators of power equipment.

Faced by mounting construction and labor costs, Downey recently decided to go to the War department in an attempt to obtain surplus equipment which could be manned by board of education employes. It is estimated that the equipment obtained will enable the board to cut costs around 70 per cent. The equipment, including the bulldozer, grader and other machinery was obtained free, but the board is paying the shipping costs.

Welfare Board Plans To Open Infants' Home

The Allegany County Welfare Board has obtained the services of an "ideal couple" to operate an especially planned foster home on North Centre street in a move to put the baby adoption business on a stable basis, Mrs. Eleanor Westerfield, director of the board, reported yesterday.

Mrs. Westerfeld declined to give the names of the couple who will manage the home—which will be complete with nursery and grounds for children to play in—since she feals prospective parents should first contact the welfare department and go "through channels."

The home will be ready for occupancy by the end of this month, however, and Mrs. Westerfeldt said her staff will be prepared to take the names of area couples who would like to adopt babies.

Babies To Get Tests

"We've never really had a place to take care of babies awaiting adoption before", Mrs. Westerfeldt said today. "Now, we will be able to take care of them up to three months and have an opportunity to study the children."

During the three-month period, the children will be examined twice by physicians and also by a psychologist. All pertinent information regarding the child's background will be secured, the child's disposition will be studied—and consequently the Welfare Board feels it will be able to acquaint prospective parents with all particulars concerning the children they may wish to adopt.

"Children should not be awarded just any parents', Mrs. Westerfeldt said today. "An adoption represents quite an adjustment both for the child and the parents and both the couples and the children should compliment each other as far as possible.

Two More Homes Needed

While Mrs. Westerfeldt is pleased with the success of the board to date, she indicated she does not intend to stop now. The Welfare Department also needs two additional homes—one for children over six years of age and another for those up to the age of six, in addition to the home opening up this month, which will also be for children under six years of age.

During the past year, the Welfare Board has had five babies to provide for. But prior to that time the board, due to its inability to cope with the situation, had to refer babies to other sources—generally out of town.

"Now, however, parents will be sure what they are getting", Mrs. Westerfeldt said. The new home will have facilities for five children, she added.

Veteran Is Named To Fort Hill Staff

Artie John Stauffer, New York city, photography and radio specialist recently discharged from the navy, has been named to the faculty of Fort Hill high school as a science teacher, Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools, said yesterday.

Stauffer, 30, served as an instructor at the Midshipman's school, Fort Schuyler, N. Y., during the war, teaching radio and electrical engineering.

Stauffer was graduated from West Virginia University in 1937 with a major in physics and a minor in mathematics. One year later he completed his work for a masters' degree in physical science at the University of Pittsburg. Last term he took refresher courses in psychology of learning and analysis of variance at Columbia University.

At West Virginia University, Stauffer was a laboratory instructor during his senior year. His experience in secondary education consists of two years as a teacher of mathematics in Confluence, Pa., High School and more recently he has been teaching radio physics at the R.C.A. Institute.

Stauffer, who has a well-rounded scientific background, has also worked with the installation and maintenance of sound equipment—experience that will probably be utilized by the high school, Rizer commented.

Truth In News Reports Stressed By Local Editor

Newspapers today are writing daily history and if that history is to be accurate it must be founded on truth, and this applies to local, state, national and international affairs, O. J. Hale, assistant managing editor of the Cumberland News, said in address before the Cumberland Lions Club at Central YMCA yesterday.

"Never in history was it more necessary that democratic peoples receive accurate news and information," Hale asserted. "Never was it more necessary that such news and information should be free from propaganda, bias, censorship and from careless and inefficient handling. I say this because in democratic countries news and information in the daily press is the main basis of public opinion."

Hale told the Lions that at no time in history have readers of newspapers looked, and rightfully so, he added, to newspapers to bring them truthfully the developments in the world at large. He said readers expect and are entitled to factual, accurate and uncolored reports, and a true picture of the events of present day happenings.

The speaker then outlined to the Lions how the reportorial staff of the News gathers articles for the paper, how they are written, edited, set in type, and explained the various operations from the time a story was secured until the paper reaches the reading public.

Acknowledging that many mistakes creep into not only the Cumberland News but all papers, Hale related many amusing paragraphs which have appeared in papers throughout the country in the last 25 years.

Medical Care Cost Set At $36,800

Estimated cost of the medical care budget in Allegany county for the year beginning July 1, 1946 and ending June 30, 1947 is $36,800, Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, chairman of the county medical care board, told members of the board at their monthly meeting yesterday in his office.

Dr. Franklin said that although the state allocated $18,800 for the program last year, a larger appropriation will probably be needed for the current year because of an expected increase in demand for dental services, and because a greater volume of applications by medically indigent persons is anticipated.

A program for the medically indigent was approved last month, and five applications, all for dental care, have been received since that time.

In January, 1945, the state legislature allocated $18,800 to the county for each year of a two-year period beginning July 1, 1945, and ending June 30, 1947, Dr. Franklin said.

Funds in excess of that amount would have to be allotted from the state contingent fund, with the approval of the board of public works.

Total figures of expenditures since the county program began operating last fall will not be available until June expenditures have been listed, Dr. Franklin said.

Board members decided to hold their next regular meeting in October, unless it becomes necessary to call a special meeting before that time.

EXCHANGE CLUB WILL NAME COMMITTEES

Members of the standing committees of the Cumberland Exchange Club will be named by Daniel L. D'Amicol, newly elected president of the local civic club, at a meeting of the group next Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine country club.

Featured on the ladies night program of the club were music by Donna Zembower, Royce Hendrickson, Don Burgess and Shirley Hendrickson, of the Stewart Music Home.

Committees to be named include membership, program, finance, attendance, community service, publicity, citizenship and exchange relations and fellowship.

An absolute divorce has been granted in circuit court to Mrs. Mary L. Winebrenner, 41, Garrett county, who testified that her husband, Henry E. Winebrenner, forced her to take in washing and pick coal from a slate bank to make a living. Chief Judge William A. Huster signed the decree yesterday.

Mrs. Winebrenner said she and her husband were married January 22, 1923, at Frostburg, and lived together until March 3, 1943, when they were living at Zihlman.

"My husband was very mean to me. He drank a good deal and did not work," Mrs. Winebrenner stated. She added, "When I refused to turn my hard-earned money over to him to buy booze he put me out. This was on March 3, 1943."
